Decision Expected in Times Case

Appeals Court Halts Post Articles

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Both The New York Times and the Washington Post were under court order today not to publish further articles based on the secret Pentagon study on the origins of the Vietnam war.

The Times had cited the Post's publication of excerpts from the study Friday in an effort to end legal restraints on continued publication of its own series.

But a 2-1 decision by the U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington early today reversed a ruling by District Court Judge Gerhard A. Gesell and ordered the Post to halt publication of its projected series after today's installment.

When the appeals court issued its order, early copies of the Saturday edition of the Post were on the street with its second installment on the report. Post editors prepared to remove the article from the later editions, but the newspaper's attorneys obtained a clarification that the ruling did not apply to Saturday editions and the article remained.

In New York, U.S. District Court Judge Murray I. Gurfein said Friday he would reserve decision overnight on whether to grant the government a preliminary injunction extending the prohibition against the Times or whether to allow the paper to resume its series.

The restraining order against the Times was issued Tuesday with an expiration time of 1 p.m. today.

In argument that took a total of more than nine hours in open court and in a closed session after dinner, the Times' lawyer, Alexander M. Bickel of Yale University, urged Gurfein to dissolve the restraining order because the Post printed Friday an article based on the study and distributed the story to the 345 clients who receive its news service.

"Another installment has been published," he declared. "The Republic will stand, as it did the first three days."

The Times printed three articles of its series beginning last Sunday before the government obtained the restraining order from Gurfein.

In defending its decision to publish material from the 47-volume study made for former Secretary of Defense Robert S.

McNamara in 1967-68, the Times said its material in no way jeopardized national security or current military or political operations. Rather, the paper contended, it was publishing a "historical record."

But the government continued to maintain that the "top secret-sensitive" study on the origins of the Vietnam war and policy decisions made before President Johnson sought to negotiate a peace could still compromise military plans.

U.S. Atty. Whitney North Seymour introduced into evidence two sealed cardboard cartons he said contained the study, "History of U.S. Decision-Making Process on Vietnam Policy."

Interwoven materials in the document still have vitality and affect military matters and present and future military plans and policy," he told the crowded courtroom.

At one point, Gurfein said he thought the press could "sit down with the Justice Department and screen these articles to determine whether publication of any of them is or is not inimical to the security of the United States."

Bickel protested that the length of articles made the procedure impractical and that, in any case, it was utterly inconsistent with the Constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press.

Seymour said he was willing to concede the Times' good faith, but he said the paper improperly declassified the Pentagon documents on its own.

Deputy Undersecretary of State William B. Macomber, testifying for the government, contended publication would destroy the confidence of foreign governments in their ability to deal confidentially with Washington.

There were these other developments:

A spokesman for Massachusetts Institute of Technology said it had received a call Friday from Daniel Ellsberg, a former Pentagon official who was identified by several sources as the man who leaked the study to the Times, saying he was well at an undisclosed location.

—Rep. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., said Ellsberg had given him copies of documents more than a month ago, but he didn't know if they were from the same study. Bickel told Gurfein that McCloskey was planning to introduce the entire study into the Congressional Record.

—The Viet Cong charges that the Times stories proved that the United States had carefully planned aggression in Vietnam "throughout the time of Truman, Eisenhower, Johnson and Nixon." The broadcast by the Viet Cong radio did not mention the late John F. Kennedy.

—In Canberra, Australian Prime Minister William McMahon said the Times articles affect his country only "at the edges" and he declined to say whether a document existed in which South Vietnam asked for Australian aid.

—Former President Lyndon B. Johnson issued a statement which said the manuscript for his forthcoming book on his White House years was complete and would not be changed as a result of disclosure of the Pentagon papers.

—Arthur Ochs Sulzberger, president and publisher of the Times, said in an interview with the New York Post that he was surprised that the Nixon administration had taken court action against the Times.

Paper Outlines Johnson Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post says secret Pentagon documents show Johnson administration strategists had little hope bombing pauses over North Vietnam between 1965 and 1968 would produce peace talks, but believed they would help placate domestic and world opinion.

The Post article, the second in a series, was published in all Saturday editions despite government attempts to block dissemination of the top-secret Defense Department study of the Vietnam Developments.

The Post's story by Murray Marder said:

"Johnson administration strategists had almost no expectation that the many pauses in the bombing of North Vietnam between 1965 and 1968 would produce peace talks but believed they would help placate domestic and world opinion

"The Pentagon study discloses that some strategists planned to use unproductive bombing pauses as a justification for escalating the war. The idea was first outlined privately by U.S. officials soon after the bombing of the North began in 1965. These planners regarded the lulls in bombing as a 'ratchet' to reduce tension and then to intensify it, to produce 'one more turn of the screw' in order to 'crack the enemy's resistance to negotiations,' the report states."

The Post said the report shows "the most uncompromising U.S. planners insisted that the enemy would interpret the pauses in the bombing as a sign of American softness."

Senate war critics have retreated toward a proposal for a non-binding resolution recommending the withdrawal of American forces by July 4, 1972. Story on page 14.

"Consequently, the failure of the Communist side to make a conciliatory response to each bombing lull was used as an argument for escalating U.S. involvement, either in the air over North Vietnam, or on the ground in South Vietnam, and usually both."

The collection of memos and cables, with comments by reviewers, shows it was Secretary of State Dean Rusk who first suggested the partial bombing halt in March 1968. The Post said, and not Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford.

The article said:

"The new documentation asserts, in part, that the idea of a bombing limitation was aired inside the Johnson administration at least as early as 1966 by Robert S. McNamara, then Defense Secretary, and explored by Assistant Secretary John McNaughton. According to this account, it was Undersecretary of State Nicholas deB. Katzenbach in May 1967 who first specifically proposed a 'territorially limited bomb halt' which is what finally was put into effect at the 20th Parallel of North Vietnam."

"The study also confirms, however, that in early March 1968 it was Rusk, as President Johnson said, rather than Clifford, who proposed the partial bombing halt to the President at that time."

The documents, the Post said, shed some light on how the bombing pauses were related to the weather:

"U.S. intelligence had pointed out that the weather for bombing over the North was turning bad, and 'It is not until May that more than four good bombing days per month can be anticipated.' The prevailing view, therefore, was that the United States was risking only another limited bombing 'pause'."

The account continued: The Post quotes Rusk in a July 1965 memorandum as writing:

"The integrity of the U.S. commitment is the principal pillar of peace throughout the world. If that commitment becomes unreliable, the Communist world would certainly draw conclusions that would lead to our ruin and almost certainly to a catastrophic war"

The Post continued: "A July 1965 McNamara memorandum quoted in the review advocates combining political and military initiatives, but with priority on the latter."

"At the same time as we are taking steps to turn the tide in South Vietnam," McNamara said, the United States should open a 'dialogue' with the Soviet Union, North Vietnam 'and perhaps even with the VC' (Viet Cong) to make diplomatic overtures for 'laying the groundwork for a settlement when the time is ripe"

But the Post account says the study shows division between administration and military policymakers:

It said the Joint Chiefs of Staff were "opposed to any measures which would, even momentarily, reduce the pressure on North Vietnam"

Wyman's Reappointment Irks Dye

KINGSTON

Gov. Nelson Rockefeller's reappointment of State Welfare Commissioner George Wyman came under attack today from the majority leader of the county legislature Douglas V. Dye (R-Dist. 2) and a host of leaders of the state legislature's study committee on welfare.

Most of them wanted Wyman to be fired.

Declaring the welfare system to be a long-time failure, Dye suggested that Wyman's appointment would merely perpetuate it.

Dye stated: "The same people will now be setting more policies and creating a system under new laws, and it doesn't look like they will be correcting the system that penalizes working people so others don't have to work."

Dye also stated that it was his sincere hope that the State Senate disapproves the nomination.

Dye was widely supported in his views by members of the state study committee, the Associated Press in Albany reported today.

Sen. William T. Smith, R-Big Flats, chairman of the committee, said he may oppose the appointment when it is placed before the Senate next year for confirmation.

"Wyman's record of contravention of the legislature, the misinformation given out on the original medicare program and the general lack of good administration of the $4 billion welfare program will give him little support," Smith said.

Assemblyman James L. Emery, R-Geneva, vice chairman of the committee, said he may also urge the Senate to reject the appointment unless some changes are made in the welfare program.

The two legislators drafted a bill during the session to shift the power of appointment of the commissioner from the State Board of Social Welfare to the governor.

The bill passed and they expected Rockefeller to appoint someone else when Wyman's term expired June 30.

Emery said he wanted someone "with the administrative experience and ability to make the changes necessary to put the state's $4-billion social services program on a sound footing." Some funds are provided by the federal government.

Assemblyman Lawrence Corbett, R-Fort Edward, chairman of the Assembly Social Services Committee, disagreed with Emery and Smith and said he was "not unhappy" with Wyman's retention.

Listing some of the failures of the welfare system, Dye, chairman of the County Social Services Committee, said senior citizens need help and much of the red tape they have to go through to get it should be eliminated. Welfare is also cancerous to the discipline of self-reliance, he suggested, calling it a burden to the taxpayers and is subject to abuse from without and within the department.

Dye explained further saying that the State Commissioner and the State Social Services Board have worked hand-in-hand in creating the existing system and it hasn't been a very realistic approach to the problems.

For instance, the Town of Kingston representative said, the department's attempt to issue a mandate forcing separation of services on the county level. Also, he said, they are constantly giving directives as to the number of people county departments should hire and what services should be offered.

Speaking of the state budget crisis this year, Dye said the Legislature did try to take positive action. He pointed to legislation, some of which was sponsored by Assemblyman H. Clark Bell, which transfers the appointment of the commissioner from the Board of Welfare to the governor who makes the appointment and then seeks confirmation by the Senate.

One of the 10 welfare bills passed transfers the Department of Social Services rule-making power from the State Welfare Board to the Department of Social Services restoring to the Board of Social Welfare its original function of setting policies and standards.

Another law calls for the implementation of an identification card system and the recording of social security numbers on birth certificates.

Other improvements signed into law, Dye said, include allowing local social service departments to develop their own plan for separation of social services within minimum federal standards.

Another law prohibits the prescribing by the state of the number of personnel to be employed by any social services department as long as they comply with minimum federal requirements.

Expresses Confidence in Rochester Visit

Nixon Sees Passage of Revenue Plan

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The President's manner was unhurried and confident, and his words reflected it. "I will predict flatly," he said, "that in this session of the Congress revenue sharing in some form will pass."

And in equally deliberate words, he laid down yesterday the same prediction about welfare reform and said government reorganization would begin with the passage in this session of at least one of his reorganization proposals.

Nixon addressed 70 newspaper and broadcast editors and executives from 12 northeastern states and the District of Columbia, in the third of a series of program - selling regional presidential "media briefings" staged by the White House.

The first two were held in Des Moines, Iowa, and Birmingham, Ala., and a presidential aide said others would be held in the west later in the year.

In his appearance here, Nixon batted clean - up for a team of administration officials headed by Treasury Secretary John B. Connally. The former Texas governor, a Democrat, and other White House officials had spent the morning briefing the invitation - only audience behind closed doors on the administration's domestic programs.

The presidential party whipped into this central New York city of 290,000 in campaign style, arriving at midday when lunch - hour crowds filled the streets. He was accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, and a smiling Gov. Rockefeller of New York rode with them along the sunny, five-mile route to the downtown meeting site.

Police estimated that 25,000 persons saw the motorcade. Reporters traveling with the President said the turnout didn't match in numbers and enthusiasm the crowds that had turned out on his recent visits to such cities as Mobile and Birmingham, Ala.

Still, the President acted much as he did during the campaign - smiling and waving, posing for pictures, and reaching over a six-foot fence to shake the hands of construction workers.

The campaign element was in the speech, too, with Nixon saying revenue sharing and welfare reform would pass in this session of Congress "because a majority of the country wants changes made."

He said citizens were sick of rising property taxes, a tax that has almost tripled in the last 10 years. He said his federal revenue sharing program could result in a reduction of property taxes across the country by approximately 30 per cent, "depending upon the situation in each state and local government unit."

The plan would distribute $5 billion to states, cities and towns with no strings attached. Another $11 billion would be earmarked as special revenue sharing in six broad categories. This would be in addition to the $30 billion in federal monies now available to localities through categorical grant programs.

New York's share of the $5 billion would be about $658 million, with more to come under the special sharing plan.

Rockefeller, one of the leading proponents of revenue sharing, was asked at a reception following the President's speech how he felt about the programs. With his usual wink, he replied: "It looks good."

None in the presidential party ever said so flatly, but there were hints of compromise on the revenue sharing plan. The administration proposal currently is in the House Ways and Means Committee. Chairman Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., opposes the Nixon plan and has said he would propose his own.

Connally told newsmen at an open briefing that the administration's position on revenue sharing was "not retractable." That, paired with the president's prediction that revenue sharing would pass "in some form," was taken as a strong indication of compromise.

A major criticism of the categorical grant program has been that it is virtually impossible for any mayor or other local administrator to know what is available in his community. There are 1,400 separate areas of categorical grants.

Under Nixon's $5 billion plan, a locality would be given a lump sum based on a set formula and could use the money in any way it saw fit—for a school or sewage disposal plant, for instance.

This "no strings" element seemed to bother some of the news executives, and the some wondered aloud about turning funds over to governments already difficult to scrutinize.

The administration stance has been that use of the funds would be scrutinized closely by the local communities and that the press—newspaper and broadcast—would be doing the severest scrutinizing.

In his speech, Nixon said revenue sharing and welfare reform were closely related issues because the burgeoning cost of welfare was a major factor in the economic crisis faced by so many states and cities.

He said welfare reform had failed in the last session of Congress because "many senators felt that instead of reforming welfare we were simply adding millions to the welfare rolls."

CLEAR SAILING—"Where's the snow?" President Richard Nixon asks Rochester Mayor Stephen May, rear, after Nixon arrived to discuss revenue sharing with news executives. The President was forced to cancel a visit in March because of a snowstorm that made it impossible for his plane to land. Mrs. Nixon is left. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Gospel Folk Concert At Nazarene Church

KINGSTON

A Gospel folk concert will be presented by the Hudson Valley Evangelical Ministerial Association Tuesday, June 22 at the First Church of the Nazarene, Elmendorf Street and Wiltwyck Avenue, starting 7:30 p.m.

Guest artists will be Paul Johnson and Bob McCone. Although the program is youth oriented the Rev. Thomas H. Younce, host pastor, stressed that the concert would be of universal appeal to all age groups. He urged the community to attend. There will be no admission charge.

Johnson, a 1969 graduate of the Eastern Nazarene College, Quincy, Mass., has traveled extensively in many different gospel and folk groups presenting the Gospel through music. He is enrolled at Asbury Theological Seminary, Wilmore, Ky., and plans to enter the full time youth ministry on graduation.

McCone, who makes his home in Long Beach, Calif., is concerned with questions youth and young adults are facing today. He has been involved with youth work at West Coast churches and just recently finished a graduate course at Asbury Seminary. In addition to youth work, he was chosen for listing in the current volume of Outstanding College Athletes of America.

The program is part of youth outreach of the Ministerial Association.

Rhinebeck Baptist Sets Dedication of Parsonage

RHINEBECK

The new parsonage of the First Baptist Church of Rhinebeck will be formally dedicated at a brief ceremony Sunday 12:30 p.m.

The parsonage at Astor Drive will be open during the afternoon for public viewing. The church family will have a covered dish picnic immediately after the ceremony.

Ground was broken for the new parsonage a year ago and in the following months men of the church under the direction of Leon McLaughlin, a Saugerties contractor and a member of the church constructed the 10 room house. The Rev. John Koppelaar, pastor, and his family moved into the parsonage June 1. The former parsonage on Livingston Street will serve as an educational building, temporarily as the church plans to break ground this fall for its multi-purpose building to be constructed near the new parsonage.

Saugerties Teachers Await Pay Decision

SAUGERTIES, N.Y. (UPI)—Negotiating teams have reached tentative agreement on a contract for the 1971-72 school year for the Saugerties Central Schools, according to an announcement made by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Dexter O. Arnold and William Provost, president of the Saugerties Teachers Association.

The Board of Education will be asked to ratify the contract at its regular meeting on Monday, and it is expected that the STA will ratify in the near future. Chief negotiators were Graham Barkhuff for the STA and Administrative Assistant Harold Bell for the Board of Education. The negotiations began in the middle of January.

According to Arnold, Dr. Martin Eiters, representing the Public Employment Relations Board as a factfinder, did not actually have to engage in any factfinding as he was able to successfully mediate the disagreement. Negotiations, which began in January, reached an impasse May 4, and PERB was subsequently contacted. A factfinder was later appointed.

When the impasse was reached, the Board of Education issued a statement saying that it had committed itself to presenting a fair and just budget to the taxpayers and that it felt that a $1.43 per $1,000 assessed valuation was an increase that was all that was economically feasible because of the "many problems" the voters had to face this year. As a result, they refused to grant to the teachers the salary increases they had demanded.

The Board of Education offered the teachers a $502 (7.2 per cent) salary raise at the lowest salary level and a $530 (6.6 per cent) salary raise at the master's level.

In 1970, after an impasse in negotiations, had been declared, teachers were later granted a $375 salary raise with a master's degree. Starting salary was $3,025 in 1970, compared to $7,450 in 1969, when negotiations went to impasse at that time. Figures for this year's contract have not been announced.

Henry C. Courten, 42, said he accumulated "strong evidence" that there is a celestial body or cluster in solar orbit closer to the sun than Mercury while he led an expedition to southern Mexico during the eclipse of the sun on March 7, 1970.

He said his findings have been reviewed by NASA, the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory and the U. S. Naval Observatory, leading to the conclusion the object, or possibly several small objects, are fragmentary remains of an earlier sungrazing comet or an intramercutary planet.

The astronomer said the object probably is quite small, less than 500 miles in diameter with a high orbital inclination of more than 12 degrees, and located nine million miles from the sun. Mercury, previously thought closest to the sun, is located 36 million miles from the sun.

Courten urged the scientific community to increase its observational data gathering in the next several solar eclipses to prove the existence of the

City Mishap Injures Pair

KINGSTON

Minor injuries were reported to two city residents Friday night as the result of a two car crash at the intersection of Tremper Avenue and Elmendorf Street at 10:20 p.m.

A car driven by Douglas Sarty, 22, of Route 4, Box 159, Saugerties was traveling east on Elmendorf Street when he applied his brakes to stop at the intersection with Tremper Avenue. Perry told police the brakes on his auto failed. The car entered the intersection and struck an auto driven by Russell A. Williams, 66, of 26 O'Neil Street.

Injured in the crash were two passengers in the Perry vehicle: Elizabeth Albright, 7, and her mother, Evelyn Albright, 41, of 95 Hunter Street. They were not hospitalized.

As a result of the crash, a small amount of gasoline from the Williams car was spilled on the pavement. The Kingston Fire Department was called to flush the street with a hose line.

Ellenville Police Breathing Easier

ELLENVILLE youths returned with three or four companions and attacked the bartender and his father. Village police broke up the fight a short time later.

On Friday, there were rumors circulating about possible racial violence in the village as a result of the incident. Officer John Corwin of the Ellenville Police Department said today, "We weren't really expecting trouble, but we were prepared anyway." He added, "The tension has been somewhat reduced. Last night would have been the night for trouble, but it was a quieter night than usual."

A warrant, meanwhile, has been issued for the arrest of one of the youths who reportedly fled from the bar after the fight. Frederick Bryant, 18, of Monticello, is wanted for second degree assault, a felony. He allegedly struck the bartender's father in the face.

Another of the youths, 19-year-old Robert Stubbs, is being held in the Ulster County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail after his arrest for assault. Stubbs allegedly struck the bartender in the face with a piece of two-by-four lumber.

John Graffeo, the bartender, was reported in fair condition at Ellenville Community Hospital. Authorities said that 14 stitches were required to close a severe cut on his face. Graffeo's father, Salvatore, the owner of the Shamrock Hotel and Restaurant, required five stitches to close a cut on his face. He was later released from the hospital.

Phillip Graffeo, 23, the bartender's brother, was later arrested for disorderly conduct after he allegedly went after Stubbs in a corridor of the Ellenville Community Hospital. Stubbs was reportedly there for treatment of cuts and bruises.

The fracas reportedly began when two youths entered the restaurant of the bar and attempted to rip a mechanical hand dryer off the wall. They were ejected by the owner and the bartender. A short time later, according to reports, the

Two Are Tied: Nicklaus-Palmer Break Out

ARDMORE, Pa. (UPI) — Two dark horses were out in front as the U. S. Open Golf Championship swung into its third round today, but everybody was watching two guys named Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus who were challenging for the lead—and having maybe a pretty good argument about the only other man in the field to break par for two rounds over the short but treacherous Merion Golf Club's East Course, was still another dark horse, Jerry McGee of Lake Worth, Fla., and all alone at even par 140 was former Masters champion Gay Brewer of Dallas, Tex.

One stroke behind, at 139, and Palmer and Nicklaus, both three strokes off the pace at 141 in a tie there with four other men — Bruce Devlin, George Archer, Chi Chi Rodriguez, and Bobby Nichols.

All six were in excellent position for a title bid as the 64 players who survived the midway cut at 148 went into the third round today and the final Sunday.

But for a while Friday the competition had to bid for attention against what seemed to be a developing verbal battle between Nicklaus and Palmer, the game's top two stars of the last decade.

First Nicklaus blasted tournament officials, saying they were trying to "protect the honor of Merion as a tough course" by "tricking up" the pin placements so that luck was much more important than skill in shooting a good score.

Then Palmer came along and not only disagreed with Nicklaus, saying he thought the open scrap over the final two placements were "severe but not unfair." And then going a step further to say that "what been played since 1947 but one keeping to wait because two or three groups are waiting."

And fairways, six-inch rough, and then blaming that jamup "white face" bunkers studded squarely on Nicklaus, who is with a bush.

Jacklin of England (152) was among the "names" who didn't make the cut — the third surprise of him.

"I understand Jack was 20-25 minutes behind the group ahead of him," said Arnie in a rare defending champion in a row to personal criticism. "If that's true, the officials should have moved him along. What's good for the goose is good for the gander."

The personal dispute between the two stars added spice to what was shaping up as a wide open scrap over the final two rounds at Merion, the shortest course on which the Open has been played since 1947 but one and Palmer predicted that that has been wrecking famous would mean higher and higher name golfers with its tight scores.

"The first day the course still on-again-off again career as a

was a little damp from rain, but the second day it was baking and the scores just went up like a thermometer, like I or more you can't go out there and compete and win, maybe even win the U. S. Open championship, if things break right," said Erickson. "I think it all depends on what you're done with your life up to that time. If you're a boozier or keep late hours, that's one thing. Me, I think I have another 10 years of being able to play good tournament golf." Colbert had a one-under-par 69 in the second, scrambling at the end as he bogeyed No. 17 and saved a par coming out of a trap on No. 18. In his fourth round, tending Labron Harris Open, he was surviving the cut for the first time. One of the most interesting things in the third round was scheduled right after dawn. That's when U. S. G. A. official

Bob Howse goes out and makes

Harris' fate to catch up with all the pin placements for the day.

They may still be arguing but Erickson, no never about what he does when night has won much of anything in an

OPEN CRITICS—Pin placement evoked a battle between Jack Nicklaus (L) and Arnold Palmer (R). Nicklaus charged the greens were tricked up and shows his disgust on one hole. Palmer said the pin placements were no more difficult than those seen each week on the tour, and here he sinks a putt for a par. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

All-County Picks

Sawyers Pace Dream Team

By MORT LAFFIN
and IRA FUSFELD

KINGSTON

A junior second baseman and a first-year coach head this year's version of The Daily Freeman All-County Baseball Team. The selections made are based on over-all performances, team statistics and a polling of area coaches.

The second baseman, picked as Player-of-the-Year is Rich Koegel, Saugerties. Selected as Coach-of-the-Year is Saugerties' mentor Tony Vizzie. The Saugerties team posted a record of 17-2, winning the Central Section pennant of the Dutchess County Scholastic League.

The Sawyers, led by Koegel and under the direction of Vizzie, also captured the Section One Class A title, losing the A.A.A. open crown to Central Section rival, Poughkeepsie.

Other selections to the 20-man squad from Saugerties are: Dee White, sr-catcher; Tom Cole, sr-pitcher; Dave Smith, sr-first baseman. Sawyer honorable mention selections are: Gerry Malkieri, John Bach, Mark Salinovich, Craig Wrolsen and Dave Fuller.

The Dukes of Marlboro, Ulster County Athletic League champions, also gained four spots on the top team. The Dukes are led by sophomore outfielder-pitcher Charlie Jones; junior outfielder Pierre Ferguson; senior third baseman-pitcher Rich Gerentine and junior catcher Lew Rhoades. Mike LoFaro is the honorable mention pick from Marlboro.

Senior outfielders George Geanuleas and Don Lackaye represent Kingston. Ralph Perry, Steve Van Kleeck and Jim Ferraro are the honorable mention picks.

Pitcher-outfielder Mike Alecca, a senior, leads the Rondout contingent. Other Ganders selected are: senior first baseman Bruce Burr; soph second baseman Bill Wilkens; junior third baseman Hyler Van Wagenen. Picked as honorable mention are George Wallack and Jim Schaeffer.

Junior shortstop Jay Ackert with good range, the soph also managed to hit .285 in his first varsity season.

SHORTSTOP: Jay Ackert-New Paltz. Ackert, another fine fielder, hit .389 with 24 base knocks, in 65 at bats. He had 14 ribbys on a County-leading total of six homers. He also hit four triples, a double and scored 21 runs.

Doug Geer-Highland: Geer, a real speedster, stole 12 bases, hit .353 with 18 base hits in 47 trips to the dish. He was one of the main forces behind the Highland pennant drive.

THIRD BASE: Rich Gerentine-Marlboro: Gerentine made his selection to third base hard because he also was a fine pitcher for the Dukes. Rich batted .350 with 12 ribbys. He was also 6.0 as a hurler.

Hyler VanWagenen-Rondout: Another two-way performer, VanWagenen toiled at third and on the hill for the Ganders. He batted .314 and had three homers, one a grand-slam in the sectionals against Port Jervis. His pitching record was a neat 4-2.

OUTFIELDERS: Don Lackaye-Kingston: Big Don, a right-hander, had 11 hits in 35 at bats for a .311 mark. He had three doubles, two triples and one player could. While he hit a home. Also a pitcher, Lackaye had a 2-3 record with 41 k's and 20 base-on-balls. His teammates averaged five errors a game behind him.

George Geanuleas-Kingston: Regarded as the "ace of the mound corps" last season, a bout with tendonitis forced George into the outfield. George proved to be a tremendous competitor though, and batted a healthy .386 to repeat as an All-County selection.

Phil Castano-Highland: Castano batted .421 in the UCAL league, but tailed off to a .316 overall. Castano would share turns on the hill and in right field. When he wasn't the starter, he was cast in the role of the Number One fireman. He also played some first and third base.

Charlie Jones-Marlboro: another of the young, rising stars, Jones hit a tremendous .377. He was 20 for 53, with 13 ribbys, three homers, six doubles and a triple. Jones was also 4.4 in the pitching department, 3.1 in the UCAL.

Pierre Ferguson-Marlboro: Ferguson, a senior, wanted the UCAL title about as bad as any player could. While he hit a respectable .291 overall, .319 in the UCAL, Pierre drove in 14 runs to share the team leadership in that department with Rhoades.

Bob Mattice-Highland: Mattice is another of the more versatile athletes in the area. While he was primarily a first baseman, it was thought that he could handle the outfield just as well and his .390 batting average makes him a natural for the "Dream Team." Big Bob had 11 ribbys.

PITCHERS: Tom Cole-Saugerties: A right handed repeater from last season, Cole had a slight control problem in walking 24 while striking out 17. However, he posted a 6-1 record with a 2.48 earned run average, hurling most of the key league contests for the Sawyers.

Bill Schiller-New Paltz: The husky workhorse of the Huguenot staff found himself, starting, relieving and playing the field when he wasn't pitching. Schiller fanned 88 batters in 63 2/3rds innings. He walked 42 and had an E.R.A. of 2.3.

Mike Alecca-Rondout: Alecca was probably the toughest pitcher Ganders opponents faced all year. The stingy right-hander posted a 6-2 record with a minuscule E.R.A. of 1.2. Alecca fired two onehitters, two twohitters, two three-hitters and two four-hitters. Four of his six wins were of the shutout variety.

Dan Brown-Ontario: While information on Brown was incomplete, he did post a record of 5-1 with an E.A.A. of 1.32 for a team that was going nowhere fast at the beginning of the season. He also managed to bat a healthy .323 and was the Indians' MVP.

THE COACH: Tony Vizzie-Saugerties: A graduate of Coxsack, Vizzie played varsity baseball and basketball for four years. A January 1971 graduate of Ithaca College, Vizzie has a Bachelor of Science degree in physical education.

While at Ithaca, the new mentor played frosh baseball and soccer; he played varsity baseball for three years and was the team captain his senior year. As a senior, he won the Bucky Freeman award for the best player on the Ithaca College varsity. The school's Neuman Club named Vizzie an "Athlete of America" and he was also Ithaca's "Athlete-of-the-Week" several times.

Kingston Braves to Play Clowns

Off to a fast start in defense of their Hudson Valley Rookie League championship, the Kingston Braves will be playing three games in as many days beginning this afternoon.

Manager Bernie Schaeffer's charges, 3-1 on the season, visit the Minisink Valley Orbits today, face the New Windsor Rockets away Sunday, and return home Monday night to meet the Valley Central Stadium on June 28 at 8 p.m.

Meanwhile, Braves General Manager Fred Davi has announced that the famed Indian-apolo Clowns will play Kingston always been enjoyed by Kingston fans.

The Clowns, hailed as the Harlem Globetrotters of baseball, have appeared locally several times in the past and have always been enjoyed by Kingston fans.

Playing 150 games a year from coast to coast, the Clowns win 80 per cent of the time while staging a comedy show with routines ranging from pantomime to shadowball.

This year's roster includes Bobo Small, ranked among the Top Ten all-time comedy stars; Dero Austin, a fun-loving 31-inch midjet, and Homer Hill, a loose-jointed, one-armed first baseman who boasts a batting average of .360.

Also on hand will be Nancy Miller, umpire, Miss Miller, a former Chicago model, will call balls and strikes. Boasting some 30 former players in the ranks of pro baseball, the Class B World Tournament on Long Island or the Class A Eastern World Tournament, in big leagues including Hank Louisville, Ky. Both tournaments are scheduled for the Labor Day Weekend.

The Class B champs will receive $100 to cover expenses in defending its title next year. The Eastern Class A championship squad will receive all expenses paid trip to Las Vegas to play the Western champ in a best four out of seven "World Series of Slow Pitch."

Team awards will be provided by the Schaefer Beer Company.

McAnally Wins By 4-2 Score

By United Press International

Ernie McAnally, who earlier this season had his problems in the National League, is proving to be a major problem to opposing batters now that he's back in the International League.

McAnally recorded his second straight victory Friday night since he rejoined the Winnipeg Whips by scattering five hits en route to a 4-2 victory over the Charlotters in the second game of a doubleheader.

The Charlottes won the opener, 6-3, behind the four-hit pitching of Gene Garber.

McAnally, who started the season with the Montreal Expos, was optioned back to Winnipeg after posting a 1-6 record on Friday night he recorded his second straight victory and fourth of the without a defeat as the Whips rallied for two runs in the ninth suffered the defeat.

In the opener Garber breezed to his eighth victory in 10 decisions with home run support from John Heter and George Kopacz.

In other IL action Louisville edged Tidewater 3-2, Syracuse nipped Richmond 8-7 and Toledo defeated Rochester 7-2. The Chiefs outstaggered the monad as the two teams combined for 27 hits. Bobby Mitchell's seventh homer of the season helped Alan Closter to his seventh victory in 10 decisions.

Tom Grayson and Gene Expos, was optioned back to Lamont slammed homers for Toledo as Charlie Seelbach recorded his second straight victory and fourth of the without a defeat as the Whips rallied for two runs in the ninth suffered the defeat.

Slow Pitch Tourney Set

WAPPINGERS FALLS month for the annual Hudson Valley District Tournament. The single elimination event is set for July 24 and 25 at Spratt Park.

All teams in the Hudson Valley counties are eligible for entrance into the tournament. An entry fee of $30 plus a $5 Slo-Pitch Softball Association registration fee must be included.

Checks or money orders must be mailed to Phil Tasciotti, tournament director, 32 Talmadge Street, Poughkeepsie, no later than July 16.

The first through fourth place finishers in the local battle will be eligible to compete in either the Class B World Tournament or the Class A Eastern World Tournament, in big leagues including Hank Louisville, Ky. Both tournaments are scheduled for the Labor Day Weekend.

The Class B champs will receive $100 to cover expenses in defending its title next year. The Eastern Class A championship squad will receive all expenses paid trip to Las Vegas to play the Western champ in a best four out of seven "World Series of Slow Pitch."

Spanking for Kennedy

Senator Hubert Humphrey, himself mentioned as a possible Presidential candidate in 1972, administered a well-deserved verbal spanking on another White House possibility, Senator Edward Kennedy, for the latter's footless criticism of President Nixon. This might sound a bit strange, Mr. Humphrey coming to the defense of his 1968 rival, but it was needed, in the interest of fairness.

President Nixon's conduct of the war is, of course, open to fair-minded criticism, but not the kind Mr. Kennedy hurled at him when he accused the President of playing politics with the Vietnam war. This was not only unwarranted, but hitting below the belt, and Mr. Humphrey as much as told him so. The latter said he thought Mr. Nixon wanted peace as much as any senator or anybody else.

Senator Kennedy has a conveniently short memory when he overlooks the fact that two immediate predecessors of Mr. Nixon's, both Democrats the same as Mr. Kennedy, and one his brother, increased the tempo of the war, and it took Mr. Nixon to head things in the opposite direction. If he wants to be sincere in his comment on the war he should be lauding Mr. Nixon for winding it down.

Instead, in keeping with two other hopefuls, Senators Muskie and McGovern, Mr. Kennedy finds it convenient to seize on what is probably the weakest issue for all three. It would be far wiser for them to consider that Mr. Humphrey knows whereof he speaks much better than they, since he was on the firing line for four years as President Johnson's Veep and acquired much first hand detail of the whole Vietnam war picture and its problems.

Mr. Kennedy brings credit neither to himself nor his family name by making any such amateurish allegation that a President of the United States would use a war for his own political ends. The record states completely otherwise and is there for all to see. Mr. Kennedy is still lacking in showing that he has the stabilities to run the country from the White House.

'Favorite Son' Usages

Senator Robert Taft Jr., of Ohio, has begun the holding action known as a "favorite son" candidate for the Republican nomination for President. And Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes of Texas has announced that he is ready to support Senator Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr., as his state's favorite son candidate for the Democratic nomination.

These early pronouncements in each of the major parties have one thing in common. Each is warning outsiders to keep out of their state. After that, their aims are different, showing the diversity of uses to which favorite son candidates may be put.

Taft is worried over the state of the Republican party in Ohio. His aim is to prevent the infighting from diluting the strength of the party, so that the nomination will not be jeopardized by a party torn within. He announced he would be pledged to turn over the delegation to President Nixon, hopefully with a strong party behind him.

Barnes' warning to Democratic hopefuls to stay out of Texas until after the primary next spring is made to increase the state's bargaining power at the convention. It would increase the Democrats' chances of carrying the state from the eventual nominee, he believes, if it were not exposed to the claims and counterclaims of all the aspirants.

In the past conventions, the Texas delegation operated under the unit rule, normally under the tight control of its governor. The McGovern Commission reforms abolish the unit rule. Barnes said he thought there might be a substantial degree of unity behind Bentsen's favorite son candidacy. In other words, that he would be able to turn over the major portion of the 130-vote delegation, seventh largest at the convention.

Barnes himself is likely to seek the governorship next year. In that event, he faces the possibility of a primary fight from former Senator Ralph Yarborough, a liberal leader who lost to Bentsen in the 1970 primary. A Barnes-Yarborough race might upset the favorite son plans for Bentsen, as Yarborough has his friends among the presidential aspirants.

Durable but Transient

The U.S. dollar may presently be in a weak position in the foreign money markets, but in the literal sense it's the strongest currency in the world.

A dollar bill has an average life expectancy of 18 months, says the Treasury Department. It takes about 8,000 folds to wear it out. Bills from European countries give way after only about 2,000 folds.

One thing is sure. Your average dollar bill doesn't get much chance to deteriorate from prolonged confinement in a wallet.

Famed bandleader Duke Ellington was given a Doctor of Music degree by Howard University in Washington, and later in the same day a special diploma from Armstrong High School. Ellington attended the school, class of 1917, but did not graduate. A drop-out, as an exception, he made good in life.

"Let's Try to Keep Above It!"

David Lawrence Says What Purpose Is Served By Publishing Documents?

WASHINGTON — What purpose could be served by publishing in a big newspaper a series of extracts from a 47-volume documentary on how American policies in the Vietnam War, particularly from 1964 to 1967, were formulated?

Lyndon Johnson, who was president at the time, is no longer in office. Neither his Secretary of State nor his Secretary of Defense is an official of the government now. The steps taken in the period mentioned, while interesting historically, have not much to do with the situation that exists today in the making of policies by the Nixon Administration.

But some important questions have emerged. Who made secret documents available to a newspaper? Did the study in which they appear come from someone who was engaged at the time in preparing the report? It is a violation of law to disclose classified information.

Already, government officials here are talking about the possible consequences of the publishing of the texts of decoded messages, including the date, sender and receiver. The fear is that this will enable the Soviet Union, which has undoubtedly been copying our messages transmitted by air to break the American code and thus decipher all other communications which they have been able to intercept. One official said, "You may rest assured that no one is reading this series any more closely than the Soviet Embassy." Another official declared:

"If the New York Times had not printed all those texts, very little might have been done. Stories about the study — by themselves — probably would not have caused much reaction."

The documents are classified as secret, and it is illegal for anyone to give them to a newspaper. The FBI is carrying on an extensive investigation to find out how the report got into the possession of persons outside the government.

As for the responsibility of a newspaper in publishing information that it received from someone who had no right to make it available, the courts will have to decide this matter. There is no certainty about just what measures can be taken to impose a penalty on a newspaper for printing what it gathers as news, unless it was itself involved in an unlawful process in acquiring the documents, which is very unlikely.

The New York Times in an editorial, after a temporary injunction had halted publication of material taken from the study, said:

"Once this material fell into our hands, it was not only in the interest of the American people to publish it but, even more emphatically, it would have been an abnegation of responsibility and a renunciation of our obligations under the first amendment not to have published it."

The Department of Justice will continue its battle in the courts to prevent the publication of any further articles based on the documents, arguing that they are damaging to the interests of the United States in its relations with other countries. But even after the case is settled and the issue of whether the remainder of the articles can or cannot be printed is decided, the question of what purpose is served by the disclosure will not be readily resolved.

The articles which have just become the subject of so much controversy deal with events that took place at least a year and a half before President Nixon took office. The White House says that Mr. Nixon was not aware of the Pentagon's study but that others on the staff knew about it. Apparently it was not regarded as necessarily a significant document.

Ronald Ziegler, White House spokesman, said that when Mr. Nixon became President, one of his first steps was to order a complete assessment of the history of the U.S. involvement in Vietnam and that this included a look at all the documents on which the Defense Department survey being publicized this week was based.

The main point about the Vietnam war is the part played by Red China and the Soviet Union and the meaning to the entire continent if South Vietnam is taken over by the Communists. This could happen if American troops are withdrawn without making sure that the Vietnamization program is successful and that the South Vietnamese are strong enough to resist further aggression.

Social Security

Taxes, Benefits Go Higher

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The important question of Social Security payroll tax increases is being discussed today in a strange, misleading vacuum.

It is being pointed out that the worker's payroll levy, presently 5.2 per cent and scheduled to rise higher in the years ahead, is becoming the stiffest tax some Americans pay.

About 12 million personal U.S. income tax returns involve no payment of taxes at all, either because yearly incomes are low or because family size and deductions cut incomes below taxable levels. But every income-earner pays that 5.2 per cent for Social Security-Medicare.

True enough. Correct, also, that under present law that yearly payroll bite will rise to 6.05 per cent by 1987, or to 7.4 per cent by 1977 if a new rate schedule pending in the House Ways and Means Committee is adopted.

There are, however, very significant offsets which must, in fairness, be introduced to put the taxes in perspective. Retirement and other Social Security benefits are going to be very much higher in the coming years.

A qualified worker who retires at 65 this year can draw at most $213.10 a month in retirement benefits. If his wife is also 65, the pair can collect a maximum of $319.70 a month.

But let's look ahead. Presume a man and wife who were both 50 in 1970 and are going to be at full retirement age 65 in January, 1985. Presume likewise that a man has maximum earnings creditable to Social Security under that program from 1942 through 1984.

Under present law, the couple in 1985 and thereafter could draw $385.40 a month in retirement pay.

Under the pending Ways and Means Committee bill, which provides for a new 5 per cent benefit increase to take effect in mid 1972 and also for future cost-of-living benefit hikes, the same couple would in 1985 start drawing $638.10 a month in retirement money.

In plain fact, it is almost foolish to say "under present law." Existing benefits and taxes reflect changes in the law made just this March. Now the new committee proposals are pounding in on top of these changes. The whole history of the Social Security program suggests strongly that, even without the projected cost-of-living escalator, benefit levels will continue to rise markedly.

Benefits are determined in part by averaging the worker's best earning years. Since wage levels keep going up, his yearly average for Social Security purposes is bound to get steadily better.

In no case can a worker compute his benefits against an earnings average higher than the "tax base" from which his payroll taxes have been taken. The present base is $7,800. Even if that had been in effect for many years, which it has not, a worker could not figure his benefits against an earnings average of, say, $8,400 a year.

On the other hand, that tax base is going to rise higher, and higher. At present it is due to go up to $9,000 next year. The House bill would revise that to $10,200 in 1972.

Wage projections suggest that workers reaching retirement age in later years will be able to gain big advantage from this broadening base when they come to figure average yearly earnings for Social Security purposes. Median annual earnings for all male workers are estimated at nearly $6,700 for 1971. By 1985 they are projected at $12,800, by 1990 at $16,000, by 2000, nearly $24,000.

Yes, Social Security payroll taxes are getting to be a hard kick for a lot of working Americans. But higher earnings will soften the blow, and Social Security benefits will climb to ever more attractive levels.

Jack Anderson Says Government Money to Help Build All-White Hospital in Alabama

WASHINGTON — The government has agreed to put up $750,000 to build a new hospital so that three white Alabama doctors will not have to share a spacious, ultramodern hospital with black doctors.

The costly project might mollify the whites but it would also leave the 25,000 people of Macon County, Alabama, with a lot of empty hospital beds.

The county is already served by John Andrew Hospital in Tuskegee, which was built with federal money just a few years ago. This highly rated hospital has 140 beds, about 50 of which are usually vacant. Moreover, it has an unused floor designed to accommodate an additional 60 beds.

The county's eight black doctors, having helped initiate the construction of John Andrew, now control it. The idea of using a hospital run by blacks, however, apparently upset the three white doctors who have been sending their patients across town to the creaky, 32-bed Macon County Hospital.

As this old facility became increasingly obsolete, the county hospital administration got the Health, Education, and Welfare Department to authorize a $750,000 grant to build a new 32-bed hospital on the same site.

The total cost of the new hospital would be $1.5 million, or around $50,000 for each of its 32 beds. The cost of adding 60 new beds at John Andrew, which isn't even crowded, would be only $300,000 or $5,000 a bed.

To soothe the white doctor's sensibilities, it seems, not only are nation's congresses asked to put up $750,000, but another $500,000 will be squeezed out of the country's hard-pressed citizens.

False Claim

But this isn't the end of the scandal. It also appears the county hospital falsified its application in order to help get approval for this extraordinary project.

Under the law, hospital grants are supposed to have the approval of the local medical planning council or medical society. Not only has the Macon County Medical Society failed to approve this project, but on four occasions since 1968, it has voted specifically against having more than one general hospital in the county.

The man apparently responsible for getting the hospital approved is Clay Dean, a state Health Department official responsible for administering the federal program in Alabama. While we were unable to reach him for comment, it can be safely said that he knew full well the situation in Macon County when he put his signature on the application and sent it on to Washington, where it was rubber-stamped by oblivious HEW bureaucrats.

For even the application, hoked up as it is, contains this candid statement about the county hospital: "The majority of hospital care provided for the white population of Macon County is accomplished at Macon County General Hospital."

Although state officials claim there are both white and black doctors on the staff at each hospital, this is highly misleading. For, in practice, the black doctors use John Andrew and the white doctors use the county hospital virtually exclusively.

Hospital administrator Wayne Pelouquin, asked how he could justify the new 10 times more per bed than hospital since it would cost expanding John Andrew, retorted: "I'm not even trying to justify it. I'm just telling you we're going to do it."

However, when we questioned McDonald Rimple, deputy director of the program in Washington, he had a different reaction. "It can be stopped," he said. "This does not represent good health facility planning." He promised a full investigation.

Footnote: Two crusading Alabama lawyers, Morris Dees and Joseph Levin, are preparing a suit to halt the project. The suit will be filed on behalf of the county medical society and a number of other citizens.

Blank Subpoenas

Many U.S. attorneys serve subpoenas without getting court approval. They circumvent the legal requirement by keeping a stack of blank, pre-signed subpoenas on hand

Congressmen meeting in secret, have now started to raise questions. They called Stephen Sachs, the former U.S. attorney in Baltimore, behind closed doors of the House Administration Committee.

"Was it customary," demanded Chairman Wayne Hayes, Ohio, "in the court that you represented for you to have a stack of blank, signed subpoenas on hand so you could fill in the name and serve them without a clerk, or the judge, or anybody else knowing about it?"

"The short answer to that question, Mr. Chairman, is yes," said Sachs. But he went on to explain, in detail, that it was all strictly legal. "Suffice it to say," he went on, "that the Congress does see the rules and the Congress at least tacitly approves the rules."

"When the rules were written," agreed Rep. Bertram Podell, D-N.R., "they were written so that the clerk may sign a subpoena in blank. It did not give you the right to go ahead and sign a hundred subpoenas and keep them on hand as it would a stack of potato chips when you wanted to dip into a barrel."

Red Dollar

Intelligence reports say the Kremlin is delighted over the dollar crisis for an unpunished reason. The Soviet Union is plagued, according to this report, with a black market in dollars.

Russians secretly hoard and circulate dollar bills, because Russians have more confidence in the dollar than their own ruble.

Millions of dollars are reported to be circulating inside Russia. The weakening of the dollar has shaken the confidence of these dollar traders.

Noisy Fish

The Navy's supersecret Mark 48 torpedo is having trouble because it won't shut up. The torpedo purrs loudly in the water if it gets even the slightest dent in handling. The purring upsets its sensitive tracking system so much that it can't find its target. Older torpedoes, while less accurate and shorter-ranged, take more knocking around than the big new "fish."

Henry J. Taylor Says Greece Is Our NATO Partner

PLATAEA, Greece — Almost 2,500 years ago the young soldiers from this Greek city ranged the left flank of their Athenian allies and stared across the Plain of Marathon. Through the early morning haze they saw an enormous mass of Medes and Persians.

Persian King Darius I led this army and he threatened to engulf Greece and, with that, conquer the remainder of the known Western world. And, had this Persian succeeded on this plain 26 miles northeast of Athens, Western civilization never would have developed as it did.

But the warriors of Plataea and Athens defeated the Persians here and gave Greece time enough to consolidate its states into the resemblance of a united nation that could defeat the Persians at sea in the battle of Salamis when they were at Athens itself.

The story of Greece is a story of 25 centuries of bloodshed and this has continued into the lives of nearly all who live here today.

Greece was an anti-Nazi country that did not collapse. She fought heroically against, and almost defeated, Nazi forces five or six times stronger than her own. In fact, Greece was the only Western ally to sustain a successful campaign against the German-Italian axis on the European continent for the first four years of the war. In our own country let that not be forgotten.

The British deserted the Greeks in their final hours of crisis and there were hundreds of British soldiers left stranded here when the British withdrew to the island of Crete, yet not one British soldier was betrayed to the occupying Nazis. The Greeks hid them, fed them, and cared for every one — and all of this at the risk of their own lives.

This country lived under that Nazi invasion and occupation longer than any of our NATO allies. In fact, of the 15 NATO nations only eight were ever occupied by the Nazi forces. Then came two Communist takeover attacks, both of which I witnessed here. And in all these horrible years of Nazi invasion and occupation Greece's casualties did not equal the incredible 250,000

Greek men, women and children killed during those two Red attempts to take over Greece.

Every mile of this lovely land's 300-mile northern frontier borders on a Communist country. West to East, these are: Albania, Yugoslavia, Bulgaria — all Red and all ready. Greece dangles like a plum under them — today the only Balkan nation outside the Iron Curtain.

The third Red attempt was made in 1967 and I was here then, too. I moved that April the entire distance along the three Red borders in the north. The conveniently mountainous terrain made (and still makes) guerrilla infiltration as ideal as from Red North Vietnam into South Vietnam. It was apparent that someone had to act, or Greece was on the verge of being another South Vietnam or a Castro Cuba.

On April 21 Col. George Papadopoulos and an officer group overthrew the shaky government of Premier Panayiotis Kanellopoulos. On December 14 young King Constantine II fled to Rome, along with Premier Constantine V. Kollias, who the King had preferred in April after the coup, which resulted in today's government misnamed cryptically abroad the "government of the colonels."

The alternative to this government could well be a Red government — a fact many propagandists in our country and elsewhere make it their business to ignore.

Yet this is the essence of the American interest — or should be. By the present government America's interest, not the interest of the U.S.S.R., is served. Greece is our country's NATO partner. It fully supports NATO and our foreign policies as a whole. The Red attackers who were stopped by "the colonels" publicly swore to withdraw Greece from NATO, and they remain to this day as anti-American as the Red leaders in Hanoi.

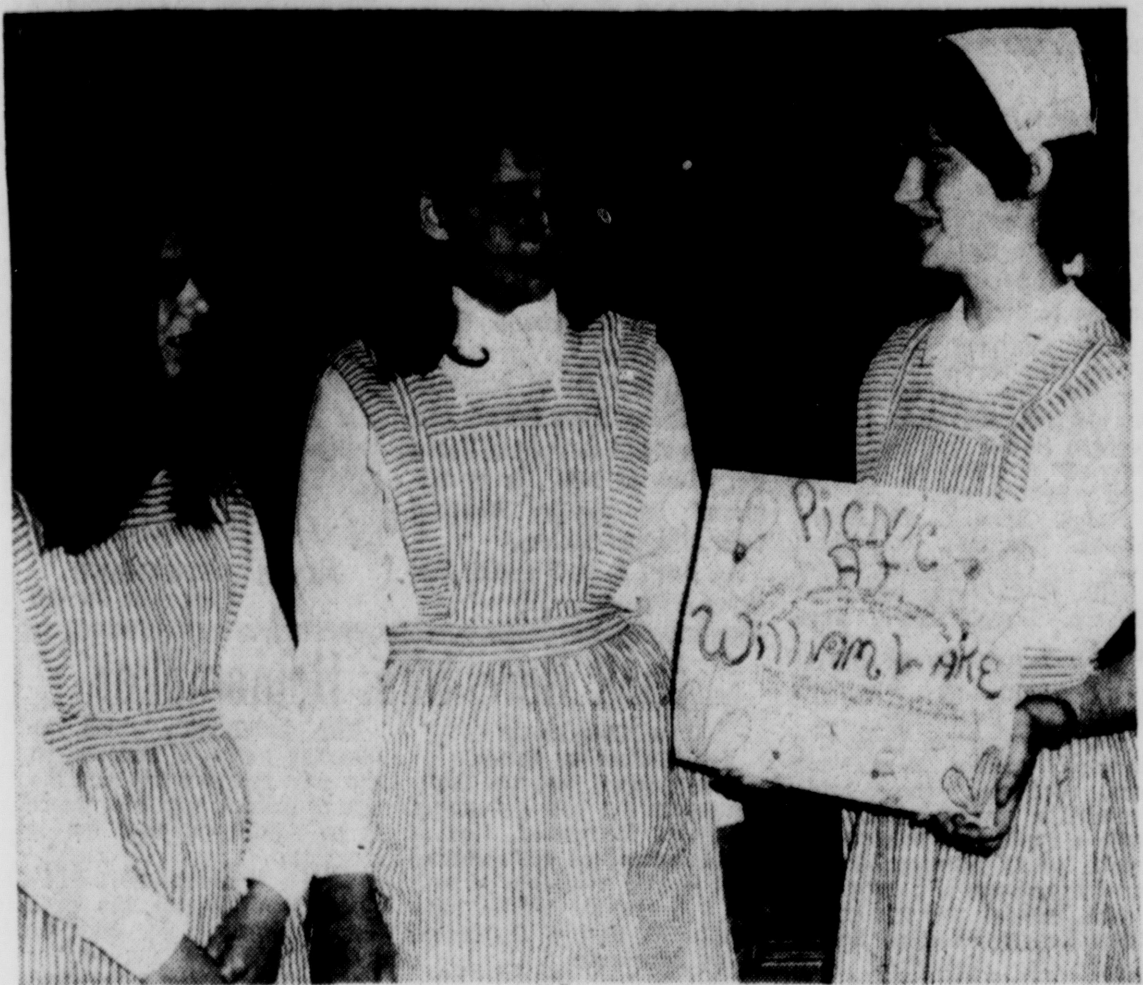

The Soviet clearly threatens the free world in the countering of this threat which is indispensable in the American interest. We need an ally, not an enemy, in Greece. The relation of this government to the security of the United States is the basis on which Greece should be judged. And the internal situation here is the subject of another article.

Youth in the News

Summer time is travel time but for one Youth in the News it is more than a trip to the mountains or the shore.

Susan Schleede, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Schleede of 80 Yarmouth Street, is touring Europe with the 70-member Valparaiso University choir this month and is slated to return to the states on Tuesday.

The choir represented the United States at the International Congress for Church Music at The Hague. Other concerts were given in West Berlin, other cities in West Germany and in Switzerland. The choir is under the direction of L.L. Fleming.

A music major at Valparaiso University, Susan previously sang with the Concordia College Choir on the Bronxville campus and on tour. She was a member of the Kingston High School choir for three years. A second year student at the university, she is specializing in voice and piano studies.

In addition to the musical aspects of the European tour, choir members have had an opportunity for extensive sightseeing by various modes of travel. The tour started in London and included a concert at Coventry Cathedral. Channel crossing by steamer put the 70 member group in The Netherlands already to launch their extensive European tour. Castles, cathedrals and concerts highlighted the sojourn on the continent. Last Friday the group went into East Germany through Checkpoint Charlie and continued on to Wittenberg site of Martin Luther's posting of the 95 Theses.

Alpine adventures were found in Austria, Switzerland and Bavaria. Farewell voyage before the flight home will be a cruise down the Rhine followed by a final concert at a Rhineland spa.

The Hudson has been called the Rhine of the New World and another Ulster County Youth in the News will be cruising its waters this summer.

Eric Flavin, a freshman at New Paltz Central High School has been selected to serve as a crew member aboard the Clearwater from June 30 to July 6. He has been an active member of the New Paltz High School Earth Committee which continues environmental concerns beyond Earth Day observances.

The Clearwater, a replica of the 19th century sloops which served as shipping vessels along the Hudson before the advent of rail, is a sailing reminder of the need to clean up our environment. The Hudson River Sloop Restoration Inc. decided four years ago to focus attention on the rapid deterioration of the Hudson River and the result was the Clearwater which cruises the river from April to September, offering concerts and inviting friends and neighbors to join in its environmental efforts.

The sloop will dock in Kingston from June 26 to July 2. Two visits are scheduled in Poughkeepsie July 17 to 26 and Aug. 7 to 17.

Another youth making news with pioneering efforts is David M. Fletcher of Kingston. A first year student at Tufts University School of Dental Medicine, he participated in a recent pioneer project to teach preventive oral health care in the Boston Elementary School system.

The Tufts Dental Health Education Project just completed at the Abraham Lincoln and Quincy Schools in Boston's South Cove low-income area was coordinated and conducted by 16 volunteer students and a faculty advisor from the Department of Social Dentistry. Coordinators assessed the success of the pilot study which consisted of weekly visits to third and fifth grades beginning in February. The program started with free examinations and cleanings at the Tufts Dental Clinic with classroom instruction centering on tooth care nutrition and the role of the dentist.

David is the son of Dr. and Mrs. M.J. Fletcher of Ringtop Road.

Swiss Summer Set

WEST HURLEY Switzerland, near Lake Constance. Departure time is drawing near for Robert Zoehfeld, Ontario High School junior. He will leave Kennedy Airport Wednesday on a special charter flight with a group of American Field Service students from all parts to the United States.

Robert, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gunther Zoehfeld of Brittany Drive, West Hurley, will spend 10 weeks studying and traveling while a guest of his European host family.

From Brussels, the U.S. students will entrain for Basel, Switzerland in the Jura Mountain area and spend several days at the international camp for intensive briefing in the European languages and culture. Many will not meet again until they all return home the first week in September.

They will join their European families on June 28. Robert's own family has an interesting background of Dutch, Latvian, German and French ancestry. He will spend the summer in the home of a Swiss family in the District Town of Wil, Canton taking the 6:15 a.m. train to problems and needs of other of St. Gallen, northeastern Switzerland, near Lake Constance.

The Eugen Steinlin family has three teenagers: Buido, 19; Maya, 17; and Marco, 16. They study in the trade schools in Wil or a nearby town. Mr. Steinlin is an electrician and Mrs. Steinlin works in his office.

They "speak some English" so Robert expects to trade some of his English for their lyric Swiss German. He has studied German at Ontario for three years and is sure that these 10 weeks will add another three years to his ability to handle the language.

Local sports, music, hiking, sailing, swimming and trips up the cablecars to the peaks. One 8,000 feet with lunch near the cool mountain streams all promise a beautiful summer.

Schools in Switzerland close mid-July and reopen in mid-August. European schools do not usually admit visiting students but Robert hopes to be a part of one of the two sessions.

If he attends classes with Guido, and Marco it will mean make him more aware of the next town and having peoples and their culture.

breakfast at 7:30 before the first class. Some days they might return as late as 7 p.m. Maya attends school in Wil. Some trade schools meet on Saturdays. The apprentice training in European Schools plans to produce master craftsmen in their trade.

The Teinlin family lives in the older section of Wil which is a Medieval town, population 15,000. The ceilings of part of their home were constructed in 1490. The home is furnished with antiques passed down through generations of their family.

Robert is taking a set of slides of the American West with him. These were photographed on a family trip to the West and its history and culture are of unfailing interest to most Europeans.

Robert is particularly interested in his trip this summer because he hopes to ultimately enter the field of Architectural Urban Planning and Building based on the needs of urban areas and their people. His summer in Switzerland will mean make him more aware of the next town and having peoples and their culture.

Picnics and plays are much a part of the summer scene and two such events are in the immediate future locally.

Benedictine Hospital Candy Strippers will have their annual picnic June 29 at Williams Lake. The day will include a bus ride from the hospital to Williams Lake, a picnic lunch, swimming and games.

Discussing final plans for the outing are (L-R) Janice Fields, chairman, Christa Reidel and Bonnie Hughes, co-chairmen.

The very active Saugerties Y-Teen group will present a real old time melodrama at the Main Street School auditorium June 24 and 25. When the curtain goes up at 7:30 p. m. on those dates, the audience will be treated to a special production of Bird in a Gilded Cage or Love Conquers All.

In the can can line will be (L-R) Carol Aviles, Cora Holoran, Georgeine Groves, Valerie Cyr and Liz Florsch.

Tickets may be obtained at the YWCA in Kingston, at the door or from Mrs. Griffin Holoran, Y-Teen advisor. The play is expected to have great appeal for all ages and senior citizens will be guests of the Y-Teens. Audience participation in the form of boos for the villain and cheers for the hero will be the order of the days.

Both the Candy Strippers and the Y-Teens are vitally involved in community service. There are 60 active Candy Strippers who serve at Benedictine Hospital. Summer classes for 44 new recruits will start next week. Capping ceremonies take place at the Christmas awards tea, a formal event held annually to salute achievements of the youthful volunteers.

The Saugerties Y-Teens, a branch of the Kingston YWCA, plan periodic visits to the Ulster County Infirmary Annex starting this fall. Girls will make small gifts for the residents and provide entertainment and conversation.

During the summer, members will participate in three bus trips and take part in a complete course in outdoor cookery.

Further information about the programs may be obtained by contacting Gail Gold, youth director at the YWCA; Mrs. Holoran or Mrs. Richard Cyr, consultant.

Write On, Baby

By LEI

Graphology is a sixty-dollar-word for handwriting analysis. Once it was limited to carnival fortune-tellers and the limited few interested in the occult arts; often it was little more than a flim-flam gimmick. Some people even believe that it was possible to analyze character by the traits revealed in handwriting.

Those interested in psychological developments soon knew better. Personality traits, they found, are revealed through a person's art work, driving habits, speech patterns—and handwriting. The main problem is proper interpretation. It is very doubtful if any run-of-the-mill "fortune teller" can tell to much, and if that can be told accurately. Often it takes years not only of training, but of experience, to successfully judge character through handwriting.

In spite of this, "reading handwriting" is a popular pastime at parties and get-togethers, where everyone takes a turn reading somebody else's handwriting. As long as it is regarded as fun and not seriously, everyone can recognize a few general traits in handwritings.

In order to make an accurate analysis you will need at least five or six lines of prose written in the person's usual handwriting on a regular white sheet of paper without lines, such as typing paper. It is not possible to accurately analyze only a signature, since signatures often differ from the rest of the handwriting. (Even this, if pronounced, indicates that the person may be hiding their true self behind an act.)

Many things must be taken into account in reading handwriting. Some of these are the size, formation, slant, evenness of lines, and spacing.

Extremes in the size of the writing would be bound to indicate something, and it isn't hard to guess that someone with a very large handwriting had quite a desire to be seen, and may be quite a show-off. And it wouldn't be too hard to guess that a person with very tiny writing might be shy and slow to make friends. (However, they also tend to be very careful and accurate.)

Writing which slants forward usually indicates an extrovert, who gets along well with people, has many friends and is active in community and social affairs. On the other hand, writing which slants backward indicates a shy person who may be slow to show affection. Sometimes these people are also procrastinators about other things. Vertical handwriting indicates a person with fairly well-balanced emotions, while handwriting that leans this way and that often indicates a moody person who is friendly one day and grumpy the next.

A writer who connects all of his letters in a word probably doesn't take many chances, and thinks carefully before acting. Those who leave space between the letters in a word are fonder of reacting to hunches. Wide margins and spaces between letters indicate generosity.

There are hundreds of rules concerning what is indicated by the formation of the letters themselves. Only a few can be mentioned here, but many public libraries have books on graphology, for those interested in reading about it more seriously.

If the lower loops of the words are more pronounced, especially if they are very large, the person is probably very physically-minded. He may be very interested in good living, a sensualist who places his own comfort paramount. High upper loops, on the other hand, indicate someone who is more interested in idealism, and "higher" pursuits. If the writing has straight lines instead of loops, the person might tend to stress new innovations, and to be highly intelligent. Writing that is very rounded indicates a cooperative person—but they may be so cooperative they allow others to trick them. Angular letters, on the other hand, indicate someone who is more competitive, and tends to never take anything for granted. Letters that are tightly closed, such as the "a," "o," or "g" indicate a closemouthed, laconic person; it shouldn't be hard to guess that a person who leaves those words open also has a fairly open mouth.

A large capital "I" shows, as you might guess, that the person is quite an egotist; a small capital "I" shows a person who may have a poor opinion of themselves. If the small "i" is dotted with a circle, the person has an artistic trend, but they also may tend to be somewhat phoney. A long bar on a "t" indicates one who is ambitious, while an overly short bar which does not cross the stem of the letter points to a procrastinator.

Some wits have asked whether handwriting analysis will not become a dead art with the steadily increasing use of the typewriter, even by children in grade school. Well, graphology keeps up with the times—there are now experts who claim that keys to the personality can be read in typewriting! Which is really finding out what "type" of person you are!

Youth Groups Schedule

SAUGERTIES

Officers have been elected and plans for a busy summer through winter schedule are being made by the Junior and Senior High youth of the Saugerties Methodist Church.

Leading the Senior Highs for the coming year will be Duane Jones, president; Carl Bright, vice president; Karen Whritenor, secretary; David Sawutz, treasurer.

Bill Garrison will be transportation chairman and Jimann Larson will be in charge of refreshments.

Junior high officers are Peter Meggison, president, Lois Cadmus, vice president; Dan Cartmell, treasurer and Ginny Trumpp, secretary. Marl Baudendistel, Keith Hudak, John Pavlak, Jeff Scott and Jim Whritenor make up the transportation committee.

Youth advisors are Mr. and Mrs. David Bright and the Rev. and Mrs. William H. Baudendistel with the help of parents and friends.

The election was conducted during a swim picnic outing held at the Brights Blue Mountain home recently.

Among the activities planned for the summer is a trip to Hunter Mountain slated next Saturday. Those participating will leave the church at 10 a.m. Activities will include a chairlift ride to the top of the mountain followed by high level hiking.

Tomorrow the youth groups will assist with the church picnic at Cantine Field, taking the responsibility of games for the younger children.

Even now the groups are making plans for their part in the Winter Retreat Weekend at Pawling scheduled for Feb. 25 through

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Huber of 7 Garden Court, Saugerties, announce the engagement of her daughter, Shireen Desco, to Donald Every, son of Mrs. Charles Boyce of 27 VanGaasbeck Street, Kingston.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Saugerties High School and Columbia Memorial Hospital School of Nursing, Hudson. She is employed by Kingston Hospital.

Her fiancé, a graduate of Kingston High School, is self-employed.

A September wedding is being planned.

Ten Area Dancers In Ballot Festival At Jacob's Pillow

The Orange County Ballet Theatre, Inc. has been selected to appear at the Northeastern Regional Ballet Festival at Jacob's Pillow on Friday, June 25.

The group will perform the ballet "Patterns," which was choreographed by Regis Powers of the Powers Dance Art Centre and premiered in Newburgh last year. The ballet will be presented at 2 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

Ten local dancers will participate in the Festival held yearly with outstanding companies of the northeast area. They will study with well-known teachers and symposiums on dance, make-up and related theatre arts in addition to performing. "Over the past 25 years, many fine young dance artists have been presented at this Festival, and Ted Shawn, the director, has a world-wide reputation for spotting new talent," said Regis Powers.

Dancers who will participate in the Festival are Ginger Martin, Michele Wilson, Brenda Leonard, Yvonne Cuffee, Fatima Zaki, Allison Matthews, Renee Paolini, Christine Hotelling, Barbara Hess, and Terri Vanzo. Regis Powers and Merritt Thompson, artistic directors of the Orange County Ballet Theatre will accompany the group to the Festival.

SOCIAL ACTIVITIES

Mary Elizabeth Krom Weds J. J. Ryndak Jr.

St. John's Episcopal Church, Albany Avenue, Kingston, was the setting of the wedding of Miss Mary Elizabeth Krom, 89 Henry Street, Kingston, and Joseph John Ryndak Jr., 74 Henry Street, Kingston, on Sunday, June 13 at 2 p.m. The Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger officiated at the double ring ceremony. Traditional wedding selections were provided and vases of white carnations decorated the altar. White satin bows marked the family pews.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Krom Jr., RD 1, Box 252, Saugerties, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ryndak Sr., 74 Henry Street, Kingston.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore the bridegroom's mother's wedding gown. The satin gown was fashioned with a chapel train and bishop sleeves featuring hand embroidered seed pearls and lace flowers appliques. Her fingertip length veil was shirred to a lace flower and seed pearl headpiece and she carried a bouquet of white miniature carnations and stephanotis.

The maid of honor, Miss Camille Aloisi, Pearl Street, Deer Park, L.I., was attired in a powder blue dotted Swiss gown, styled with a scooped neckline and leg-of-mutton sleeves. A large ruffle, appliqued with miniature white daisies, accented the bottom of the dress. Miss Aloisi carried a fireside basket of blue marguerite daisies and baby's breath and wore a headpiece of marguerite daisies in her hair.

Miss Candace Giambone, Phoenixia, served as an attendant. She was dressed in an identical pink gown and also wore a flower headpiece and carried marguerite daisies and baby's breath.

Ralph Ryndak, 74 Henry Street, Kingston, was best man for his brother, John Kudlo, Hyde Park; and John Bryson, Poughkeepsie, were ushers.

A reception for 65 guests was held at Flamingo Restaurant, Saugerties.

For her wedding gown trip through upstate New York and Canada, the bride selected a lavender pant suit with a tunic top, trimmed in white, white accessories and a white corsage of baby roses.

Mrs. Ryndak was graduated from Saugerties High School and is employed by Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, Hall of Records, Transcription Division, Kingston. Her husband is a 1967 graduate of Kingston High School and a 1971 alumnus of Marist College where he majored in Business Administration. He is employed by United Parcel Service, Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryndak Jr. will make their home at 89 Henry Street, Kingston.

Ostrander-Trapani Betrothal Told

Mr. and Mrs. Frank N. Ostrander of 71 Orchard Street, Kingston, announce the engagement of their daughter, Diana, to Benjamin Trapani, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Trapani of Milton, N. Y.

Miss Ostrander is a 1970 graduate of Kingston High School. She is employed by New York Telephone Company, Kingston.

Her fiancé is an alumnus of Marlboro High School and a graduate of College of Santa Fe, Class of 1969. He is employed by JayBee Trapani Cold Storage, Milton.

An April 8, 1972 wedding is being planned.

Low Temperature Self-Cleaning Ovens

A few years ago the high-temperature self-cleaning oven was introduced. Now a low-temperature self-cleaning oven is also available in both gas and electric ranges, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist.

Here is how the low temperature oven cleans itself. The oven, operated at normal temperatures, oxidizes soil continually as it is deposited. Cleaning occurs as the oven is used.

Low-temperature cleaning is made possible by a specially developed catalytic system. The technique used to apply the catalyst is hard but porous, permitting fat droplets and other soil to be exposed to as much catalyst as possible. Because the catalyst coating absorbs soil into its many pores, the area where soiling occurs usually looks clean before all the soil has been oxidized.

The speed with which the cleaning proceeds depends on the oven temperature and the size of the soil spatters. There is no smoke or odor during cleaning.

Low-temperature self-cleaning eliminates the need for a number of complex mechanisms and the service and maintenance required for them. Wear tests show that though repeated scorings or gouging with a hard instrument could damage the catalytic surface, such scoring normally would not be required. Heavy spills would carbonize in time, but wiping up the spill-overs keeps the oven looking more presentable.

Developments such as the application of a hard, stipple (apply in small points or dots) overspray of porcelain over the blue-gray, black, or brown basic coating helps to protect the catalytic coating against abrasion and improves the appearance.

Wife Wants Hubby 'Trapped' in Sleep

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that if a person is in a deep sleep, if you speak to him quietly, and ask questions, he will answer truthfully?

Also, is it true that if a person is sound asleep he could have something "drilled" into his head so that on the following day he would carry out the suggestions that were put into his head? I am not trying to do anything illegal or dangerous, but there are a few questions I would like my husband to answer, and he could too easily lie in his waking hours, and this other method would sure set my mind at ease.

NO NAME, PLS
DEAR NO NAME: You are probably referring to questioning one who is in a "hypnotic state." Or trying to plant suggestions in the subliminal or unconscious mind of one who is sleeping. These techniques require great skill and I don't recommend them for your purpose — if indeed you could successfully pull them off, which is extremely doubtful.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is a girl I'll call Irene. We have nothing in common except that our husbands were best buddies in the service. Irene has made it a habit to come over uninvited, around dinnertime with her two kids who are both on the bottle.

Last time she came, we had eaten early, but she stayed and stayed, saying every few minutes that she really should be getting home to fix dinner for herself and her children as her husband was eating downtown. I finally fed them about 8 p.m. just to get rid of them.

UCT Auxiliary Meeting Tuesday

The Ladies of United Commercial Travelers of America Auxiliary No. 130, Kingston, will hold a meeting Tuesday evening, June 22 at the Trinity Lutheran Church, corner of Hone and Spring Street, Kingston.

Reports will be given by senior counselor, Mrs. Grace Kirschner, and delegate, Mrs. Samuel Feldman, of the Grand Auxiliary Convention held at Lake Placid.

All members are requested to be present as this will be the last meeting until September. Officers are requested to call the senior counselor if they are unable to attend.

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: Your problem isn't Irene. It's your husband. He has no right to insist that you be "nice" to a presumptuous, nervous woman merely because her husband is his friend. Tell hubby that you'll be nice to Irene when it's a foursome, but you plan to discourage her frequent drop-in dinnertime visits. Then do it.

BPW Members Attend Rose Banquet

Members of Ulster County Business and Professional Women's Club visited the Hudson BPW Club at Elm Tree Restaurant in Caryville on Thursday, June 10 for the annual Rose Banquet.

Attending were Beverly Reese, Third District director of New York State; Barbara Read, president; Norma Smith, first vice president; Joan Ann Bryne, Sara McDonald and Helen Hilda-brand.

The invocation was given by Evelyn Wittis of the Hudson BPW Club. Priscilla Mullens, president, extended greetings and introductions. She welcomed Carolyn Delmater, state president; Beverly Reese, Third District director; and Margaret Barnhardt, guest.

Roll call of attending clubs was taken by Jean Kulewski. Among clubs represented were: Ulster County BPW Club; Chatham BPW; Turnpike BPW; Town and Country BPW; Rensselaer BPW; Albany BPW. State club awards for Hudson BPW Club, which were announced by Kathleen Coessons, included Membership; Press Book; third prize; BPW Week; Use of Emblem.

To conclude the evening, a musical program was presented by Christine and Cynthia Duffield, daughters of a Hudson Club member, who sang the score from Hair.

To Meet Monday

St. Joseph's Altar Rosary Society will hold its monthly meeting Monday, June 21 in the school cafeteria at 8 p.m. Members who have not been enrolled will assemble at 7:20 p.m. in front of St. Joseph's Church. All members are asked to be present.

The hat show which was scheduled for last month will be held at this meeting. Awards will be presented. Mrs. Frank Simpson extends appreciation to all those who contributed to the linen basket.

Mrs. Robert Bartz, outgoing president, will present the gavel to the new president, Mrs. Louis Misasi.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS of Town of Esopus Unit 1298, American Legion Auxiliary, Port Even, took place Tuesday, June 1 a the group's 25th anniversary dinner at Roberto's Restaurant in Port Even. Charter members were presented with 25 year pins. Installing officer Mrs. Lester Sanford, past Third District Chairman of Department of New York American Legion Auxiliary (L) is shown presenting the gavel to newly elected president, Mrs. Frank Dempsey who also served as the unit's first president 25 years ago, was county chairman, and is the present Third District chairman. Mrs. Sanford will serve as chaplain. Other officers include Mrs. Kenneth Bonville, first vice president; Mrs. James Michaelides, second vice president; Mrs. Ethel Howard, secretary; Mrs. Clifford Davis Jr. treasurer. Co-chairmen of the dinner were Mrs. Ethel Howard and Mrs. Kenneth Bonville.

To Meet Monday

25th Anniversary

MR. AND MRS. MICHAEL A. MAURO of Route 4, Box 219, Saugerties, observed their 25th wedding anniversary June 8 at a party in their home for members of the immediate family. Married at the Church of Our Lady of Grace in Brooklyn on June 8, 1946, Mr. and Mrs. Mauro are the parents of three daughters: Juliette, wife of Stanley Zaborski of Kingston; Michele, wife of Frank Simpson of Lake Katrine; and Anita Mauro. Their attendants were Mrs. Louis (Sue) Luongo, sister of the bride, Brooklyn; and the late Joseph Mazzullo. Mrs. Mauro is employed by W. T. Grant Company in Saugerties and her husband is employed as a mason for Local 14.

Recent Wedding Announced Here

Mrs. Guy Davenport of Elizabethtown and Ellenville and Charles F. Kaiser Jr., the senior partner in the law firm of Kaiser and Murray in Ellenville, were married Saturday, June 12th at the Chapel of the Holy Name of the Episcopal Church at Cragmoor. The Rev. Richard Elting officiated at the ceremony.

The bride wore an ankle length Tina Leser original of pastel flowers on blue silk. Her attendants were Mrs. James J. Murray and Miss Beth E. Kaiser, daughter of the bridegroom. Their gowns were green and pink to complement the color scheme of the bridal gown.

Charles F. Kaiser III was his father's best man. James J. Murray, Mr. Kaiser's law partner, served as usher.

The bride was escorted to the altar by Meyer Regenbogen, president of the First National Bank and Trust Company of Ellenville, of which she is a vice-president and director.

MRS. CHARLES F. KAISER JR.

More than 100 guests attended a reception at the Ship Lantern Inn, Milton. After a month of travel Mr. and Mrs. Kaiser will reside at 156 South Main Street, Ellenville.

ALAN NORTH (L), SCOTTY BLOCH

Plaza Suite Production A Hilarious Comedy

By DOROTHY A. NAREL

Edgar Rosenbaum, executive director of Woodstock Playhouse, ushered in his 12th season of local summer theatre Friday, June 18 with Neil Simon's hilarious comedy PLAZA SUITE. The Woodstock production was a hit. It was a champagne occasion with many notable personalities lending their presence to the first night performance starring veteran thespians Alan North and Scotty Bloch.

North has just completed an eight-month national tour of PLAZA SUITE and is currently appearing in the film version. He is a fabulous talent. Playing three different characters, North tosses off these difficult roles with tremendous polished ease. With Scotty Bloch as the wife in the three comic tales, North makes PLAZA SUITE an absolute delight. Miss Bloch, who has been in productions in theatres throughout the United States as well as Switzerland and Mexico, is an extremely talented and versatile performer. Both actors have perfect timing.

Others in the cast are Tanny McDonald doubling as a secretary in the first act and bride-elect in the third act, Louis Smadbeck Jr. doubling as a bell hop and a strong-minded prospective bridegroom, and Bill Young.

The trio of stories in Simon's PLAZA SUITE are very funny. Action takes place in New York's Plaza Hotel. Each of the stories deals with people and situations that are laughable because they reflect everyday situations.

Scenery for PLAZA SUITE, which kept New York audiences convulsed with laughter for two years and eight months, was designed by David L. Taylor. Lighting is by Ronald Wallace with Elaine Frank handling costumes.

PLAZA SUITE will be staged at Woodstock Playhouse through June 27. ADAPTION/NEXT will come in on June 29 with PLAY IT AGAIN SAM set for July 6.

Believe it or not, but DRACULA is scheduled for July 13 complete with fantastic stage settings and special effects. Other top hits for the summer will be A FUNNY THING HAPPENED ON THE WAY TO THE FORUM July 20; FIDLER ON THE ROOF August 3; BOYS IN THE BAND August 24; and FORTY CARATS August 31.

Book Burning Being Probed

KINGSTON

A book-burning incident attributed to students celebrating the close of school Wednesday noon is still under investigation by authorities.

Stephen Hyatt, principal at J. Watson Bailey Junior High School, said apparently about 10 textbooks, mostly social study books, were burned on a wood fire about noon Wednesday. He said he believed it was a prank of some students celebrating the close of school and could not be attributed to a protest of any kind. A fire truck of the Kingston Fire Department quenched the small blaze and there was no further incident.

Whooping Crane Rosey Dies In Texas Zoo

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI)—Rosey the whooping crane died of unknown causes Thursday at the San Antonio zoo.

The body will be shipped to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Department's Patuxent Wildlife Research Center, Laurel, Md., where an autopsy will be performed.

Two zookeepers found her down and unable to get on her feet when they came to work Thursday morning. Medical treatment was carried on all day, but at 5:55 p.m. Rosey passed away.

The mother of 20 eggs laid during four breeding seasons at the zoo. Rosey is survived by only one of her children, a 4-year-old crane named Tex, which has lived at the Patuxent center since shortly after his hatching.

Rosey was found injured near Lometa, Tex., in 1956. She was brought to the zoo and nursed back to health.

She was sent to Audubon Park Zoo in New Orleans for a few months in an attempt to mate her with male cranes. No eggs resulted.

Later a male crane named Crip came to live with her at San Antonio, and he fathered Rosey's 20 eggs.

Zoo officials said Thursday Crip will remain at the zoo.

Your Horoscope

Sunday, June 20

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A beautiful day and evening for you to attend the services or the studies of your choice. Make sure to think in terms of what you can do to improve home and family conditions. Put your relations with others on a much better basis. You have a sixth sense to know what others would like from you.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Make your home more charming and restful than it has been in the past and try to please kin more. Start an up-trend toward greater success. Studying your newspaper for new ideas is fine.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Philosophical studies that help you to think along the right lines are good in the morning. Eliminate a problematical affair easily. Make plans for the future with kin.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Use your intuition and improve harmony between you and close ties. Show much affection and get right results. Showing others that you handle your affairs in a most efficient way is good.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Associates will listen carefully to your ideas and give fine suggestions of their own that are helpful. Make new contacts of worth. Show that you can express yourself ideally.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) See what you can do for a person who can always be relied upon and is very loyal to you. Plan to arrange your wardrobe so that it brings out your finest points. Attend a fine social affair in the evening.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Go to the recreations that mean much to you today. Showing devotion to worthwhile associates is wise. Take time for a hobby you like so much. Good friends are in a fine mood today.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you do something to help kin gain their aims, you indirectly make the future easier for yourself. Do something to make your home more comfortable. Evening is fine for the social.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Showing more friendliness to allies will make projects more successful and easier. Communicating with others is quite easy now. Don't use forceful methods.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You must have a clear conscience if you are to gain your objectives. Setting up a better budget plan for yourself is important right now. Don't become overly excited over something or someone.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have many personal aims and it is important you know which are the most important to work on first. Do some entertaining in the afternoon and evening. Show that you have excellent manners.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) An ideal day to get facts you need for an important project you have in mind. Doing those things that impress bigwigs is fine. Excellent benefits can come from this later on.

PICES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A good day to go out with friends and gain their goodwill and support for the future, whether in business or personal life. Repay social obligations. Make sure your bills are paid.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY, he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who is most practical and can make much money early in life. There is also an artistic talent to bring pleasure to self and others. The head of a great corporation is here, whether male or female, be it in business or through humanitarian ways. Give as much education as possible. Early religious training is fine.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for July is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (Daily Freeman), Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Sure-Thing Play for Slam

By Oswald and James Jacoby

Here is another one of those so-called, laydown hands. West makes his normal opening lead of the king of clubs and South has no trouble counting to 11 winners. He also sees that he has three plays for his 12th trick.

The first is that maybe he can ruff out the queen of clubs to set up dummy's jack. If that doesn't work he can lead a heart toward dummy and finesse the jack. If that fails he will still be able to fall back on the spade finesse. He starts ruffing a club at trick two. Then he plays the ace of trumps and notes that both opponents follow. He leads a second trump to dummy's jack in order to lead a third club.

The queen does not fall so play number one has failed. You can see also that both finesses are wrong. In spite of all that South can almost claim his contract at this point. All that is necessary is that West have the queen of clubs and the opening lead has marked him with that card.

Here is the sure-thing play. South leads a heart to dummy's ace; a second one back to the king; ruffs this last heart; plays dummy's jack of clubs and discards his trey of spades. West wins the trick and is end played. A spade lead is up to the ace-queen. A heart lead allows South to ruff in dummy and discards his queen of spades.

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is certainly no day or evening to take any chances with your fundamental security nor with those bigwigs with whom you have any contact. They are apt to flare up at the drop of a hat and in such manner your most important ambitions will lose ground you can ill afford.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) There may be an argument going on between an associate and an official; make sure you do not enter into it and thus keep out of hot water. Handle own affairs exclusively, and all goes well. Relax in p.m.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) See what you can do to gain the favor of persons you have recently met and get the information you need at this time. Do some studying, also. Do routine work early and then have time for other things.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Get busy expressing that latent talent and derive both pleasure and benefit from it. Pay bills early. Evening can be delightful for recreation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try not to lose your temper with a family tie over outside ally and do not break up existing set-up. Take the right beauty and health treatments that make you feel and look better. Express your own personality.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) An ideal day to shop and then to talk over serious matters with others. Make those visits you want to make, but be friendly and cooperative. A co-worker wants to argue so steer clear of this person.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into the amusements that relieve tensions and forget all that concern about money and work. Find the right companion to join you in fun. Look into some new interest tonight that attracts you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Instead of upsetting yourself over one who is acting wrongly at home, get out and produce and handle the affair later. Do something to make yourself look younger and more charming. Avoid one who wants to give you trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get out during coffee breaks or lunch and handle all those small tasks you do not have time for on work days. Build up energies. Don't have a closed mind that could lessen your potential.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget financial worries and have a good time with persons you like and make headway in this manner. Go ahead after your personal desires with vigor. Do not permit others to detract from your potential in some tricky way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You are now able to get all of your affairs in order by acting quickly. Make your appearance more as it should be. Don't think negatively, but positively. Show others that you have ability.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Start new activities with a flourish and make preparations for your coming vacation. Study new ideas that come to you and do something constructive about them. Get rid of clutter.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Approaching friends of long standing can be the best way to secure the benefits you want. Studying personal aims well and being sure they are for your good is wise. Think along more modern lines.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who likes to jump into some project without being completely knowledgeable about all the details and could fail at it because of lack of sufficient preparations, so be sure to give as fine an education as you can from the start. Then all will be well. Your child has a liking for neatness and finishing things skillfully, so could rise above others.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for July is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (Daily Freeman), Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Quick Quiz

Q—Does the alligator pear come from a pear tree?

A—No, it comes from a tropical tree that is a member of the laurel family. It gets its name from its shape and leathery hide.

Q—What city in Mexico is often called the "Williamsburg of Latin America"?

A—Taxco, which looks like an old Spanish town. To preserve the town's appearance the government has made it illegal to erect buildings in the contemporary style.

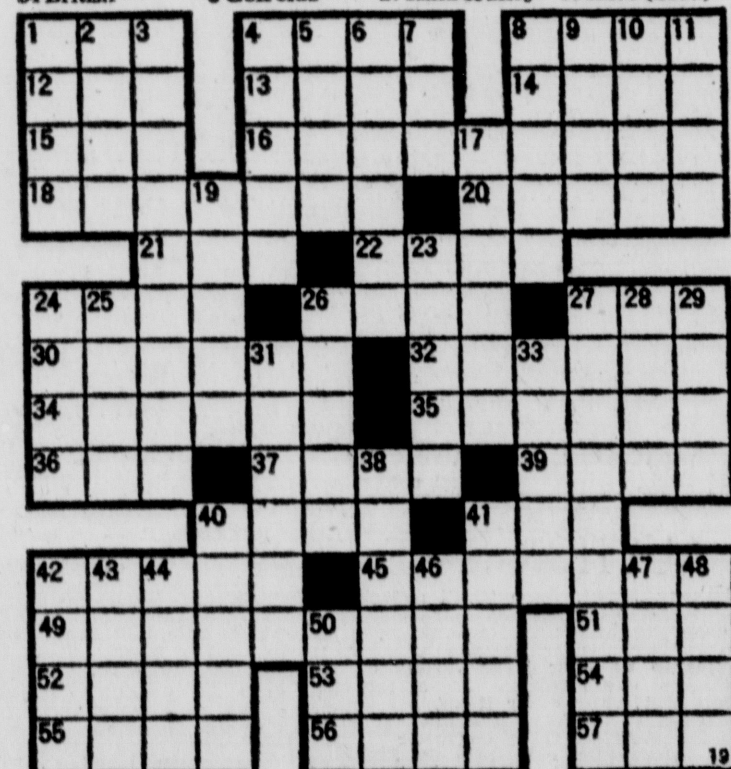

Q—Who was the first U.S. president to talk with a Pope while in office?

A—Woodrow Wilson, who had an audience with Pope Benedict in 1918.

Fare 'Today' — A Good Bet

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — With television offering a summer of endless reruns, the viewer becomes more appreciative of the few series that constantly present fresh material. And no series has a greater turnover of new material than NBC-TV's daily, two-hour morning show, "Today."

Next week's scheduled lineup of features on "Today" illustrates the scope and variety of the morning program, which has become a national habit as well as required viewing for many Washington, D.C., political figures who regard the series as a good place to be seen and to air what is on their minds.

Next Monday, for instance, "Today" offers a demonstration of a drug therapy session with four college student volunteers and an assistant professor of psychiatry from the UCLA Neuropsychiatric Institute. On the same program, the noted violinist Michael Rabin will perform.

On Tuesday of next week, there will be a panel discussion of the four-day work week, and the president of People-to-People International talks of that organization's efforts to bring about more exchange visits with Eastern European countries "to advance the cause of friendship." In another Tuesday feature, author George L. Small talks about his account of the slaughter, to near extinction, of the blue whale.

Next Wednesday, there will be a panel discussion about the single-sex college. And German film star Hildegard Neff will be a visitor in connection with a book she has written. In addition, a Michigan engineer named Sam Williams "speaks about and exhibits the small motorcycle-like flying vehicle he has developed that will, he says, enable men to fly to work and will be useful in police and rescue work."

On Thursday of next week, the entire two-hour "Today" broadcast will be devoted to the subject of motion pictures, and the guests will include director Frank Capra, actress Lorraine Day, author Max Wilk and Journalist-critic Rex Reed.

On Friday of next week, Pearl Buck is scheduled to discuss "The Story Bible," a book in which she has retold the Old and New Testaments in 72 story-sections in today's language. In addition, a Catholic priest on a two-year leave which he is spending with the U.S. Department of Agriculture talks about its child nutrition for and food stamp programs. 1970," will read some of his Critic Judith Crist will review works. Now that's a mix.

WHY WE SAY
CLOTHES: Originally this word came to us from "clothe," an outer covering of clothes. When wagon wheels were covered with an iron covering the word clothe was shortened to tire and the word has its own special meaning today.

City Politicians Playing Game of Numbers

Judging from early returns from a host of local political experts on both sides of the aisle, Bob Murphy, the GOP candidate for mayor against incumbent Frank Koenig, stands no chance of election.

It's even been suggested in some quarters that Murphy pack it in right now and let the Republican Committee on Vacancies select another candidate. Those people, no doubt, labor under the misconception that the woods are full of Republican candidates fighting for a chance to take on Koenig, winner by 3,900 votes last time out.

One would think that over in Koenig's camp, all is joy with only the counting in November to be taken care of. That's not quite the case.

The Koenig's we've been told, by people who have been through many campaigns with them, Father Joseph and Son Francis, never fall victim to complacency. They always, but always, run scared.

Right now, both sides are playing "the numbers game" with the 1969 returns. It is a fascinating game, with many variations on the same set of digits.

For instance, Frank Koenig beat Jim Tyrrell, the Republican, by slightly more than 3,900 votes which makes Frank the all time plurality leader. But Frank is not the all time vote getter. Ray Garraghan, who beat John Bechtold in 1967, holds that distinction. Garraghan came in with 7,220 votes, compared to Koenig's 7,111.

City Beat

By HUGH REYNOLDS
Freeman City Hall Reporter

The real concern in the Koenig camp isn't who the big winners were in '67 and '69, it's the losers, John Bechtold and Tyrrell, respectively, and to a certain degree, Bernie Singer, a mayoral candidate in '69 and a candidate for alderman-at-large this year.

Bernie, it seems, figures quite prominently in the figuring going on these days. Bernie has been teamed up with C. John Bechtold, a physical impossibility but well within the rules of the "numbers game."

The figures read like this: C. John Bechtold (remember that campaign theme: C. John for Better Government?) came in with 4,615 votes in 1967 against the all powerful Garraghan. Bernie Singer managed 1,298 votes in '69 in the face of that Koenig landslide. Put them all together and it spells 5,413. A total of 11,574 persons voted in the 1969 mayoral elections so that number, 5,413 comes in right near the middle. Half for Koenig, half for Murphy. When things get that close, things get interesting. At least that's what the Republicans are figuring.

DOWN IN THE WARDS—John Smith wound up nominating Emilio Primo for another term for alderman after setting the Eight Ward on fire with rumors that he might challenge the nomination of the incumbent Democratic alderman.

Smith didn't get cold feet from what we hear. Rather, he got the cold shoulder. Not that Smith didn't turn on the power brokers, he'll make a fine candidate some day, but it looks like this guy Tom Joy, the Republican-Conservative candidate is going to give Primo a good run. And the Democrats are having nightmares about losing the Common Council to the Republicans. Besides, we hear, Primo said he'd run as an independent if Smith beat him in a primary.

Another Primo, Bucky, Emilio's brother, is being mentioned for alderman on the Democratic ticket in the Ninth Ward. Phil DeCicco, the popular bowler, is also under consideration.

Over in the Sixth Ward, Lil Salipatis seems to be a front-runner for alderman against Don Quick, the incumbent Democrat. Originally, Bob Murphy, the mayoral candidate, was supposed to go against Quick. Quick supporters claim that he switched figuring Koenig was easier to beat.

Up in the 12th Ward, Martin Keller is making plans for an all out drive to unseat the umpteenth term Democrat Pete Mancuso. The Keller forces seem to think that Pete has "been to the well once too often."

CONGRATS—Clark Bell, our Assemblyman, will have to come up with some new campaign posters. Wife, Joy, gave birth to Kathleen Bell, at seven pounds, nine ounces on May 29. The Bells now have Katy, K.O. and Bridgette. Sounds like a great name for a future rock and roll group. By then Dad should be governor.

ment in four years. The parade brought the tightest security arrangements this city has had in recent years. (UPI TELE- PHOTO)

Another Resolution For the War Critics

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate war critics beaten repeatedly in their efforts to cut off funds for the Vietnam War, retreated today toward a proposal for a non-binding resolution recommending the withdrawal of American forces by July 4, 1972.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said he was considering introducing the "Sense of the Senate" resolution if the Senate Tuesday defeats a new move to cut off funds. The proposal scheduled for a vote Tuesday, introduced by Sen. Marlow W. Cook, R-Ky., would end funding of the war nine months after Congress enacted the measure.

Pastore said he had made no firm decision on the resolution but was thinking of introducing it as an amendment to the proposed two-year extension of the draft that has tied up the Senate for six weeks. Pastore said he had discussed the resolution with Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and others.

Because his plan would not be binding legislation, Pastore said, it would give a more accurate test of war sentiment because some senators have declined to vote for a firm pullout on grounds it would undermine President Nixon's constitutional war-making authority.

Pastore said several amendments to cut off war funds had been rejected because some senators believed they were "punitive" a rebuke to the President. "I'm not out to span-

U. S. Troops Attacked in S. Viet

SAIGON (AP) — Enemy forces attacked U.S. troops at three positions in South Vietnam and shelled the city of Da Nang, but a giant armed forces day parade in Saigon today went off without a hitch.

The Viet Cong apparently made no outward effort to disrupt the 10,000-man parade, the first in the capital in 3½ years.

President Nguyen Van Thieu had announced it a month in advance, and security precautions in effect were the tightest since the Communists launched the nationwide Tet offensive in January 1968. Thousands of troops and police protected the marchers and viewing officials.

The U.S. Command said two Americans were killed and 19 were wounded in the three attacks Friday. Enemy losses were not known.

One of the assaults opened a fifth day of fighting in jungled land 43 miles east of Saigon, where U.S. Air Cavalrymen have been trying to root out North Vietnamese army regulars from heavily fortified bunkers.

North Vietnamese soldiers opened fire with machine guns and rifles on an advancing column of American troops. Two Air Cavalrymen were killed and eight were wounded before the Americans pulled back and called in helicopter gunships and bombers to attack the bunker complex.

Just south of the demilitarized zone, North Vietnamese soldiers fired two rocket-propelled grenades into a U.S. armored column, wounding five Americans and damaging one troop carrier. Enemy sappers tossed four hand grenades into the bivouac of U.S. infantrymen 20 miles south of Da Nang, wounding six Americans.

Four rockets crashed into four houses at Da Nang, South Vietnam's second largest city, just before dawn today, killing one Vietnamese civilian and wounding five others.

It was the eighth time since April 26 that the city of more than 400,000 has been shelled, causing civilian casualties.

The Saigon command said up to 400 North Vietnamese troops attacked a government outpost in the central highlands but were beaten back by air strikes and suffered 33 men killed, including the battalion commander. Sources in Saigon said five South Vietnamese troops were killed and 11 were wounded.

In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian command announced that 5,000 government troops backed by U.S. warplanes and Vietnam's second largest city, helicopters have launched a just before dawn today, killing one Vietnamese civilian and wounding five others.

The Vihear Suor marshes 12 miles east of the capital. A spokesman said the Cambodian forces were meeting stiff resistance.

Chances Still Slim for Lockheed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lockheed's request for $250 million in federal loan guarantees, Chances for Senate action to save Lockheed Aircraft Corp. from bankruptcy appear no better than 50-50 after two weeks of hearings on the administration's request for $250 million in federal loan guarantees. With apparently only five, possibly six, firm votes for the legislation in the 15-member Banking Committee, there appears a possibility the bill might die there and never reach the floor for a vote. Apparently because of this possibility, a knowledgeable committee source said Friday, the Treasury Department has been considering a suggested compromise.

Treasury Secretary John B. Connally has been masterminding the administration campaign for the Lockheed bill, drawn specifically to aid that company although it is not mentioned by name.

One reported compromise under consideration, said the committee source, is an administration bill along lines of several already before the committee. This would set up a loan-guarantee board to assist other ailing businesses whose collapse could threaten the national economy.

The report could not be confirmed and the source acknowledged that although he is certain such discussions were held, he considers it highly doubtful the administration will propose a compromise which could signal a lack of confidence in the current Lockheed proposal.

There also is a proposal before the committee to establish a national development bank along lines of the old Reconstruction Finance Corp., which, despite the taint of scandal at one point in its 20-year history, went out of existence in the 1950s with a record of success in saving many medium-size enterprises.

Lockheed says it will go bankrupt unless it obtains government-backed bank loans and is able to deliver its L1011 TriStar Airbus.

Delay in developing the plane was caused by collapse of Rolls-Royce Ltd., which is making engines for the TriStar.

Despite broad support in Congress for an RFC-type solution to problems of such major businesses as Lockheed and the Penn Central, which went into receivership a year ago, there is no assurance Congress will approve an amendment to save Lockheed.

Since it might take months to set up an RFC-type organization, and Lockheed must have help soon, such an amendment would be necessary.

Other bills approved by the governor include a measure that puts a one-year moratorium on the awarding of franchises for cable television (CATV) in this state. The purpose is to give the legislature more time to determine how the rapidly growing industry should be regulated.

Rockefeller also signed a bill aimed at simplifying the form and content of designating petitions for elections. That law applies to designating petitions that may be circulated as of next Tuesday for this year's primary.

The governor said, however, that he had been advised that the changes were comparatively minor and that petitions submitted in conformance with the old requirements for form and content would be sufficient to satisfy the new requirements.

White, a railroad clerk, is accused of grabbing a stewardess as a hostage while ordering all of the passengers off the Trans World Airlines plane at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport late last Friday night.

However, one passenger, Howard Franks, 65, a management consultant from Darien, Conn., stayed too long and was shot to death. Several shots were fired on the flight to New York by White, a deputy U.S. marshal who had scrambled aboard unseen, and a crew member.

The four crew members and the marshal got off the plane minutes after it put down at Kennedy. White followed through an escape shuttle after being shot in the arm.

The two charges against him carry possible death penalties.

Protestants Parade in Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (UPI)—Northern Ireland's majority Protestants unfurled their colors today for a parade to commemorate a bloody victory by their ancestors three centuries ago over the Roman Catholics.

The police and British soldiers assigned to keep peace had their colors, too—blue, yellow, mauve and violet dyes with which to spray possible troublemakers for easy identification and arrest.

Three persons were killed and several others wounded in street gunfights during last year's march of the Orange order.

The annual event marks the 17th Century defeat of the Catholic forces of King James II by the Protestant King William of Orange.

Merchants along the line of march boarded up their shops, some of which had been damaged in previous outbreaks of violence.

"Aye, there's not much left to protect," Tim Boyle complained as he hammered a nail into a wooden plank over his shattered grocery window. "But, mark you, what little I have I'm going to keep."

Patrick Devlin, who represents the Catholic quarter of Falls Road in the Stormont, Ulster's Parliament, said, "I n-

Falls Road in the Stormont, Ulster's Parliament, said, "I n-very apprehensive about the situation. If trouble comes, it won't be petrol bombs, but guns, that will be used."

The afternoon parade was to take thousands of Protestants, garbed in their finest clothes and sashes, within 50 yards of the Catholic Upper Springfield Road, a flashpoint of recent inter-religious fighting.

More than 1,000 soldiers and policemen were posted along the three-mile parade route that starts in the Protestant Shankill Road district, another trouble spot. Reserve troops in Britain also have been ordered on standby alert.

New Sunday Beer Hours for Stores

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Beginning this weekend, grocery stores in New York State can start selling beer at noon on Sundays, rather than at 1 p.m., as the result of a bill signed by Gov. Rockefeller.

The governor's office announced Friday that Rockefeller approved legislation advancing the Sunday selling time by an hour. The law took effect immediately.

The measure was one of the approximately 1,050 bills left on the governor's desk when the legislature adjourned last week. Rockefeller has until July 6 to act on them.

Another bill that gained the governor's approval in the first stage of this year's 30-day bill-signing period was the supplemental budget containing $23.6 million in cash spending.

The supplemental budget is a catch-all spending measure introduced near the end of the legislative session. This year's was the smallest in seven years. The main budget adopted in April, however, hit a record high of $7.69 billion.

One part of the supplemental budget provided a total of $144,000 in increased expense allowances for the 57 state senators and three assemblymen for their committee work. These allowance increases ranged from $3,500 to $5,000.

All assemblymen and senators are due to receive another $2,000 each in so-called lulu-legislative session. This year's an itemized accounting. Rockefeller has not yet signed that separate legislation.

Other bills approved by the governor include a measure that puts a one-year moratorium on the awarding of franchises for cable television (CATV) in this state. The purpose is to give the legislature more time to determine how the rapidly growing industry should be regulated.

Rockefeller also signed a bill aimed at simplifying the form and content of designating petitions for elections. That law applies to designating petitions that may be circulated as of next Tuesday for this year's primary.

The governor said, however, that he had been advised that the changes were comparatively minor and that petitions submitted in conformance with the old requirements for form and content would be sufficient to satisfy the new requirements.

Accused Airplane Hijacker To Begin Extradition Battle

NEW YORK — An accused airplane hijacker will begin a fight early next week against extradition to Chicago, where he has been charged with murdering a passenger and air piracy.

Gregory White, 23, was captured at Kennedy International Airport last Saturday morning by an FBI agent who wounded him in the arm. He allegedly forced his way onto the plane in Chicago. It then flew to New York.

White's attorney, Aaron Schacher, told a U.S. District Court hearing in Brooklyn Friday that his client denied "each and every allegation" made against him.

Schacher won an adjournment until Tuesday on extradition

Former Judge To Be Sentenced

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A former acting Lackawanna City Court judge faces sentencing July 12 for his part in the embezzlement of $300,000 from a Buffalo bank.

Robert M. Murphy, 42, of the Buffalo suburb pleaded guilty in U.S. District Court here Friday to a charge of aiding and abetting the embezzlement of less than $100. The charge is a misdemeanor punishable by up to one year in prison. Murphy was accused of helping a former officer of the bank in an embezzlement scheme. The former bank officer has admitted engineering the embezzlement.

A former Republican candidate for Erie County District Attorney, Murphy was appointed an acting Lackawanna City Court judge last month and served on the bench for several weeks.

White, a railroad clerk, is accused of grabbing a stewardess as a hostage while ordering all of the passengers off the Trans World Airlines plane at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport late last Friday night.

Champagne Corks Go Popping As a Mirthful Comedy Opens

It was a gala champagne opening last night as the Woodstock Playhouse rang up the curtain on its 34th season.

And the popping of corks and the pouring of the bubbly was a fitting and proper background for the comedy that followed the festive party on stage. The Playhouse has a sure-fire hit in Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite," one of the most mirth-provoking laugh-secesses of U.S. stage history.

"Suite" became a long-running Broadway hit for Simon; has all three of its separate stories set in the same suite of New York's Hotel Plaza, the famed hostelry where Hildegard reigned for many years in the Persian Room as a popular chanteuse.

Caruso's Temper

Simon's Plaza, however, does not chronicle the elegant hotel's history, which would have to include the fact that Enrico Caruso once knocked out the new electric clock system there in a fit of rage when the ticking disturbed his rehearsals. And the fact that the great actress, Mrs. Patrick Campbell, shocked the world and set a precedent by publicly smoking a cigarette in its Palm Court one day at tea time.

What Simon and the Woodstock Playhouse offer currently — now through June 27 — is a three-sided comedy, following such other successes by the playwright as Barefoot in the Park, The Odd Couple, Sweet Charity, The Last of the Red Hot Lovers and Promisees, Promises.

Starring in the Woodstock comedy opener are two talented and totally professional actors, Alan North and Scotty Block. North handles his part beautifully; would be expected to do so since he has just completed an eight month national tour of "Suite" and is currently appearing in the film version starring Walter Matthau. A frequent TV performer on variety and dramatic shows, he's also a veteran of Simon's "The Odd Couple" and "Barefoot in the Park."

Co-star Scotty Block has acted on the stages of the U.S., Switzerland and Mexico; has appeared in a wide variety of productions, including works by Arthur Miller, Jules Feiffer, Oscar Wilde and Shakespeare.

All in One Suite

With more than a week left in which to see "Plaza Suite" at Woodstock, Tempo readers will want to reserve seats immediately for this trio of very funny and completely separate comedies — all taking place in the same suite of the legendary Hotel Plaza, which opened in 1907 with an air of splendor in its marble columns and glittering crystal chandeliers.

In this modern day comedy, in rapid succession, a Plaza suite is occupied by three different sets of registrants, all becoming involved in hilarious predicaments. There is bittersweet comedy in the first playlet — about a suburban couple celebrating their 22nd wedding anniversary in their honeymoon room. And almost slapstick fun in the second playlet wherein a rich Hollywood producer tries to seduce his former high-school sweetheart, now a New Jersey housewife. The third playlet is the most uproarious of all; concerns parents driven to distraction by their daughter, who balks at becoming a bride; locks herself in the bathroom.

Alan North and Scotty Bloch are teamed as the aging suburban couple, the producer and his first love, and the parents of the bride. Tanny McDonald is seen as the bride behind the bolted door, and Louis Smadbeck has the role of the groom-to-be.

"PLAZA SUITE" will keep you convulsed with laughter, so don't miss the Woodstock production, ably directed by Harold Baldrige and featuring a stunning set by David Taylor and inspired costumes by Elaine Frank.

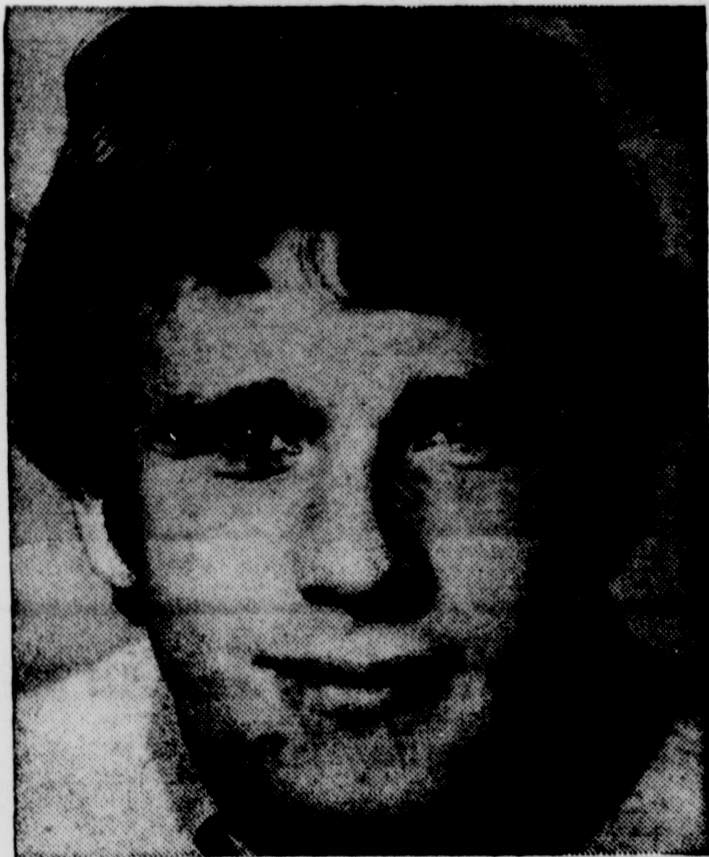

ALAN NORTH is called upon to perform three separate and distinctly different roles in "PLAZA SUITE," now playing at Woodstock Playhouse. In the trio of Neil Simon comedies, he's seen as a successful suburban businessman, a womanizing Hollywood movie producer, and the father of a recalcitrant bride.

TANNY McDONALD, an old favorite at Woodstock Playhouse and well remembered for her performance as the wife of the returning son in Pinter's "The Homecoming," returns to the Woodstock stage this year. She plays the about-to-be-married daughter in "PLAZA SUITE," who suddenly panics minutes before marching to the altar.

At Long Last, 'Love Story' Gets Ulster Showing

RYAN O'NEAL has become America's latest matinee idol as a result of his portrayal of the Harvard student who meets, marries and loses (to incurable disease) Radcliffe scholar and Mozart-lover Ali MacGraw in Erich Segal's contemporary tear-stained movie. That, of course, would be "LOVE STORY." After breaking records for almost a year around the U. S., the film gets its Ulster County premiere at Kingston's Mayfair next Wednesday night to the tune of an old-fashioned Hollywood-Broadway type premiere.

"LOVE STORY," the year's highest grossing motion picture, and the most critically acclaimed film in years will open on exclusive engagement at Walter Reade's Mayfair Theatre here on Wednesday, June 23.

Starring Academy Award nominees Ali McGraw and Ryan O'Neal, the film is based on the highly popular novel by Erich Segal. Already ahead of the boxoffice champs of all time, "Love Story" has grossed 50 million dollars to date in the United States alone, even though it has not been on the film market an entire year. It's still playing to capacity audiences in New York, Chicago, and Los Angeles, as well as in other cities throughout the country. In Los Angeles last week the Village Theatre reported its one-millionth customer in the 24th week of the film.

Some critics have called "Love Story" a phenomenon of our times. True enough when you consider it has already outgrossed such all time greats as "BEN HUR," "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS," and is rapidly approaching marks set by "GONE WITH THE WIND" and "SOUND OF MUSIC."

There's An Identification

"Love Story" is the love story of the seventies. Daniel Cox, new City Manager for Walter Reade Theatres in Kingston, says: "The young people seem to identify with the characters portrayed by Miss McGraw and O'Neal. It's the perfect film for the seventies, and it's the first film in years where women cry, and men gulp. I've never seen anything like this picture. It's amazing!"

"Love Story" will play an extended engagement at Walter Reade's Mayfair Theatre beginning next Wednesday. Extra performances are being scheduled to handle the heavy demand for tickets. Performances weekdays, Monday to Friday will be at 2, 6, 8 and 10 p.m.; Saturday, Sunday and holiday performances will be continuous from 2 p.m. with shows 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Special attention to group sales will be given; may be handled by calling the Mayfair Theatre at 338-1222.

The gala premiere is slated Wednesday evening, June 23. Local and area celebrities and businessmen will be on hand for the opening night which will feature red carpet, searchlights, and all the trimmings of a New York opening.

"Love Story" co-stars John Marley and Ray Milland, and was directed by Arthur Hiller. The film was recently nominated for 7 Academy Awards including BEST PICTURE, BEST ACTOR, BEST ACTRESS, BEST SUPPORTING ACTOR, AN DBEST MUSICAL SCORE. In a recent young people's poll the film was named the BEST PICTURE OF THE YEAR.

In technicolor, the movie is a Paramount Release.

As Spring Spills Over Into Summer...

17—THE DAILY FREEMAN, JUNE 19, 1971

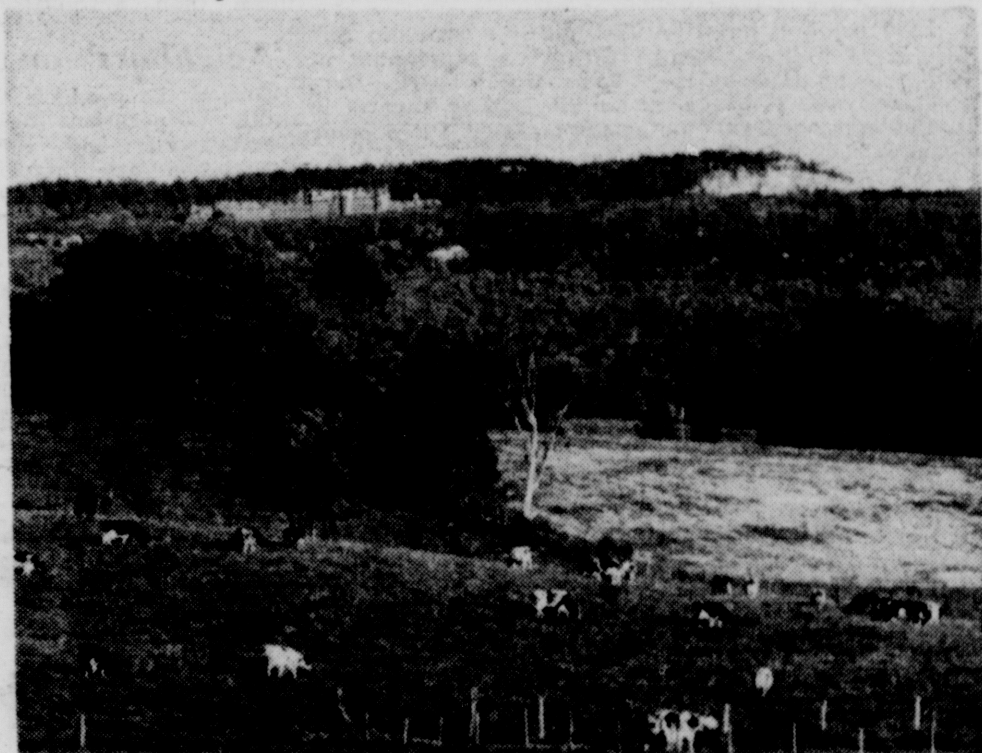

SPRING BURSTS OUT with a capital bang in the Catskills. And, at North Lake, summer explodes in a flurry of sails. Scenic lake attracts owners of small sailboats from near and far and, every weekend, boating buffs are on hand to take to the water for a pleasant cruise.

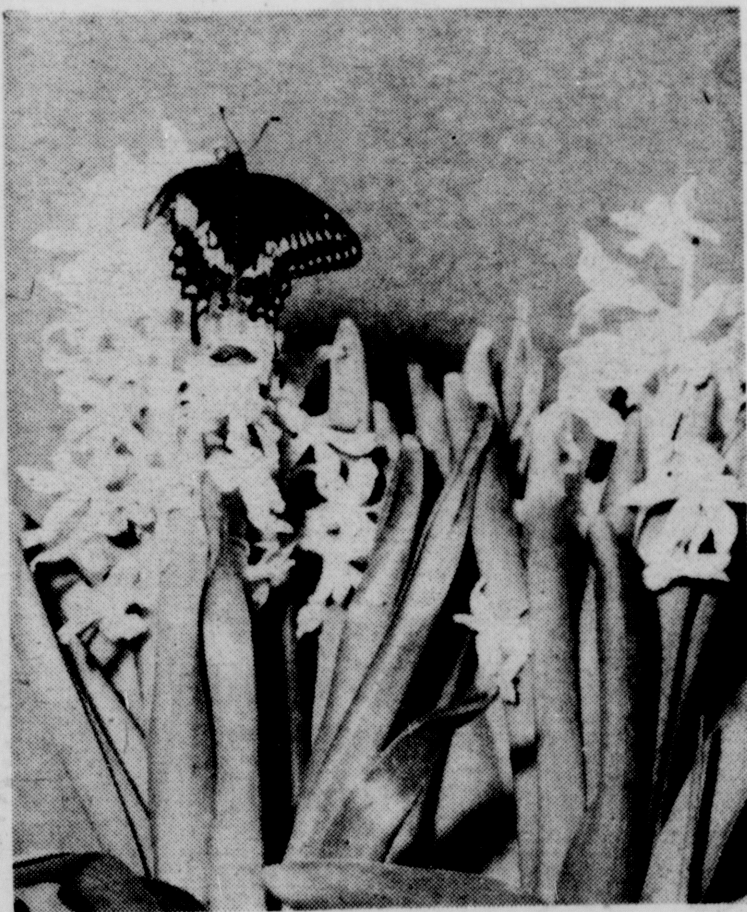

BASEBALL FANS, outdoor art shows, flower bugs, and shoppers on the prowl for bathing suits have taken over the spring-pushing-toward-summer landscape. But the legendary ole swimming hole remains unchanged with the years. This area spot still beckons nature lovers and those who prefer fresh air and fresh water to air conditioning and chlorine.

AS ALWAYS during a Hudson Valley spring, the tempo of life accelerates. Now, with the advent of summer near, the yellow-green mist has disappeared from the willows and the dogwood and magnolia buds have gone. In their place come tiger lilies, standing guard around an old wellhouse, symbolic of another era.

SPRING IN THE CATSKILLS always awaits the leave-taking of the skiers and snowmobilers. But summer seems to wait for nothing; only rarely simmers a bit before bursting out in its full glory. The Lake Mohonk Mountain House and tower dominate one of the most beautiful countryside in the whole world — and its turn-of-the-century flavor is further augmented here by the cows grazing in the foreground.

NOW THERE IS MORE of everything: more weddings, more couples strolling hand-in-hand (and they are not always young), more people with cameras, more bench warmers soaking up the sun, and more flowers in lovely profusion. And wherever hyacinths show their green tips and colorful blossoms, there is usually a hovering butterfly.

WITH HEAD COCKED and one eye closed, this goat at Forsyth Park surveys the spring-sliding-into-summer scene. A favorite of park visitors and habitues, he's noticed that warm weather brings more children and teachers, more parents and children to marvel at his horns and bewhiskered chin. Antique Trails and Sailplaning

"Antique Trails in Sullivan County," in revised form, is now available without cost to those interested. Sullivan County, in the foothills of our Catskills, has been known primarily for its American Plan resort hotels over the years, but as antiquing has increased in popularity so has the number of shops. Now there are at least 62 in this 1,000 square mile area.

To obtain the latest issue of the map directory, write to Sullivan County Publicity and Tourism Department, Pouch 20, Monticello, N.Y. 12701.

The region, easily accessible from practically any point in the northeast via excellent highways, has also come to the forefront as an excellent place to camp, with more than 35 campgrounds, including two operated by the State of New York. The western border of the county has the Delaware River as its boundary and the entire county is dotted with waterways including some of the finest fishing streams in the nation.

A fast growing sport in Sullivan County is sailplaning at the Wurtsboro Airport. Here some of the leading experts in the sport make it their home base and it is not at all unusual to see activity at the field on the part of enthusiasts who have come from four or five states to take advantage of the excellent conditions.

'Show and Sell' Still Scheduled

If you were one of the many who had planned to spend last Sunday at the Hudson Valley Philharmonic Society's annual "Show and Sell," and were disappointed at its postponement, simply reschedule your plans.

The festive outdoor event is now slated for this Sunday, June 20. Exhibits will be set up in the orchard at Manor Lake, home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Newcombe on Kingston's North Manor Avenue, adjacent to the New York State armory.

The 1971 version of "Show and Sell" will be the most colorful ever; will feature antiques, arts, crafts, refreshments and interludes of music. Open to the public, it'll run from 11 a. m. to 5 p.m. tomorrow. Admission for adults is $1 and children are welcome free.

Grant Johannesen Maverick Opener

The tunes of summer begin on a piano at the long-lived and internationally famed Maverick Concerts this year.

Pianist Grant Johannesen will open the return of the eagerly awaited chamber music season at Woodstock's rustic Maverick Hall with a recital on Sunday, July 4.

The Utah-born virtuoso has already logged over 20,000 miles this year, with two European tours as well as his third concert circuit of Russia. Ulster music lovers are fortunate in being able to hear him this season since, during the coming months, Johannesen will also take part in the Ottawa nad Caramoor Festivals before leaving again for Europe and concerts, recitals and recordings in Paris, London, Stuttgart and Frankfurt.

He's Highly Praised

third visit to the Soviet Union confirmed his status as one of our most effective cultural ambassadors. Three tours of Europe included orchestral appearances with the Concertgebouw of Amsterdam, Geneva's Suisse-Romande and the symphonies of Basel, Frankfurt and Cologne, among others.

In North America, in addition to a sold-out recital tour he appeared with Georg Solti and the Chicago Symphony, on tour with the Pittsburgh Symphony, with the Washington National Symphony in Washington, D. C. and New York City and in duo-recital with his wife, the celebrated cellist, Zara Nelsova.

Johannesen appeared recently on the NET television network in observance of the Beethoven Bicentennial. The artist was seen and heard in a performance of the Emperor Concerto with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under Erich Leinsdorf.

Recent recordings include a new Schumann collection, "Ponteios" by Brazil's Camargo Guarnieri, and the complete performance of Johannesen's 25th anniversary recital at the Philharmonic Hall in Lincoln Center, hailed by New York Times music critic Harold C. Schonberg as "a high point of the season."

That Wise Old Bird In an Urban Roost

Far removed from its native habitat, but seemingly adjusting well to its new environment, it's settled in to its urban roost for a lengthy stay.

Like the proverbial bull in the chinashop, this owl has winged in to the unfamiliar confines of a haberdashery.

TEMPO refers to the display of "owl" woodcarvings by talented area sculptor Hal Boyer. The wise old birds are currently indulging their silent philosophy from the windows Rafalowsky's Fashion Store for Men on Kingston's Albany Avenue.

There they'll sit—on full view—until the end of June and on through July. Those with a fondness for owls in sculpture and design, and those attracted to the texture of rough-hewn wood carvings will enjoy viewing the Boyer works.

Owned 'The Craftsman'

Boyer is remembered by local art lovers as the former owner of "The Craftsman" shop on Route 32 north of Saugerties several seasons back. A native of Pennsylvania, he's been employed by IBM for 11 years; has been manager of the company's graphics and photography for the past two years. A resident of the Saxton area of Saugerties, he is married and the father of three children.

Boyer's owl carvings seem as much at home in industrial plants and galleries as they would in the woods. They're currently nesting in such places as the office of IBM's lab director in the main plant; in the present Woodstock Artists Association exhibit; at the Woodstock Guild of Craftsmen, and were displayed at Hudson Valley Philharmonic's "Show and Sell."

When he's not sculpting owls, Boyer turns his hand to wood collage, stone sculpture and hand-crafted furniture; plans to exhibit work at the three-day Bennington Crafts Fair in August, and at this summer's Berkshire Artists Institute show.

So, come one, come "owl" to Rafalowsky's window and take a look.

Soul, Folk & Pop And Country, Too

Five top-flight special events attractions spanning such diverse musical genres as soul, folk, country and popular balladry will be making appearances at Saratoga Performing Arts Center during the eight day period from today, June 19 through June 26.

The parade of entertainers to Saratoga begins tonight at 8 p.m. when the Center hosts Johnny Cash. Cash, whose appeal in recent years has extended well beyond the country and western buff, brings with him an all-star show that includes Carl Perkins (of "Blue Suede Shoes" fame), Mother Maybelle and the Carter Family, the Statler Brothers, Glen Shirley and June Carter.

Tom Jones, who on Sunday, June 20 presents two shows at S.P.A.C., at 2 and 8:30 p.m., is demonstrating at the upstate amphitheater the same phenomenal drawing power he has shown in his current swing of the country's major cities and festival centers. Only a very few tickets remain for both his afternoon and evening performances. Appearing with the Welsh superstar are Pat Henry and The Blossoms and The Jeff Sturges Universe.

Cat Stevens Night

On Thursday, June 24 at 8:30 p.m. the young English pop singer Cat Stevens will be featured at the Center. Cat, who built up a large following through such early Decca releases as "Matthew and Son" and "First Cut Is The Deepest," went through a complete artistic and emotional transformation following a recent illness. He is now back stronger than ever with a fast-rising LP on the Island label entitled "Mono Bone Jakon."

Mary Travers, who is making her first appearance at the Center since she and Peter Yarrow and Paul Stookey split up what was perhaps the most popular folksinging group in The Temptations, which makes history, will be on the am-its S.P.A.C. debut Saturday, phitheater stage Friday, June June 26 at 8:30 p.m. The music 25 at 8:30 p.m. Always the vocal of these five singers, always sparkplug of the trio, Mary has rhythmic, colorful and forceful, recently demonstrated, both in has become concerned in recent live performance and on record, years with the struggle for her potential for solo stardom, black dignity and power. ROD STEIGER, portraying Napoleon, gestures from astride his mud-spattered mount, in scene from "WATERLOO," the epic story of the French general. Co-starring Christopher Plummer and filmed in Russia, the film is now playing at Kingston's Community Theatre.

KEITH RICHARD (L) and MICK JAGGER, celebrated rockers and shockers of The Rolling Stones, do their thing at Altamont before a crowd of thousands. Scene's from "GIMME SHELTER," a sort of sequel to Woodstock and the current attraction at Kingston's Community.

MOVIES

Waterloo

"Waterloo," the historical drama focusing mainly on — what else — the Battle of Waterloo, and now playing at Kingston's Mayfair, gives us Napoleon as a hero and Wellington as an argumentative snob.

As the little Corsican in this epic story, Rod Steiger bears no physical resemblance to the French general-emperor of the history books; impresses us as too paunchy for the part. Making up for Steiger's bellowing and facial grimaces, however, is Christopher Plummer, who's very, very good as Wellington.

Even though it rewrites history to some extent, "Waterloo" is worth seeing for the costumes and inspired battle scenes alone. It emerges as an epic story with spectacular backgrounds. Filmed on location in Russia, it's big and sprawling, delves into the tactics of war and utilizes thousands of extras.

Once the battle begins, the screen overflows with redcoats and bluecoats, the infantry comes on strong — mowing down the enemy — and the enemy magically replenishes itself. Midst mud and cannon, war rages and the battle surges. If you know little of the battle that changed Europe's life, you'll learn all you need to know from "Waterloo."

PAUL McCARTNEY and his three Beatle buddies, John, George and Ringo, are back for a rerun of their last movie before the big breakup. The film is "LET IT BE," and it's featured on the current double bill at Kingston's Sunset Drive-In.

Gimme Shelter

An excellent documentary: this film — now showing at Kingston's Community — will have vast appeal for youth, only educational or curiosity value for most adults. Filmed at the now infamous Altamont free concert tossed by rock idol Mick Jagger and the Rolling Stones — and turned into a scene of horror by the "Hell" Angels, it's a realistic approach to that happening.

Anyone interested in what makes youth tick today should see it, since it reveals many truths about those who take to the stage for music festival and those who attend as spectators.

In comparison with Woodstock, Altamont was a "bad trip." Free, sponsored by the Stones at the high point of their U.S. tour a little over a year ago, it had none of the "togetherness" of White Lake. Overcrowded, rife with drugs and bad vibrations, ending in murder, in the end it even turned off the Stones.

A Disaster

In movie form, it offers a slice of history — one that ought to be seen for the disaster it was — along with the musical lents of Mick Jagger at his best before the rock turned to rock. As a documentary of a major fiasco, complete with mayhem and murder, the film includes footage of the actual murder that took place at the festival, as well as behind the scenes action in depth with the performers and audience.

Jagger is a fascinating performer to watch, and Altamont's Woodstock turned sour. If Woodstock was "Korea with music," Altamont was Pearl Harbor revisited.

Other Choices

VALDEZ IS COMING and LET IT BE. Kingston's Sunset Drive-In offers this double bill. Burt Lancaster fans will find the old pro holding up well as a meek Mexican-American constable in "Valdez." A western adventure in color, it shows what can happen when a normally quiet man gets riled up through humiliation, crucifixion and injustice. "Let It Be" is a rerun of the last film made by the Beatles; features the celebrated quartet recording and performing some of their best songs and offering up their usual free-for-all fun.

'Eagle and the Hawk'
 Joanne Woodward and daughter, Nell Newman, are busy in Idaho making a 60-minute feature for the G.E. Monogram series of specials for broadcasting next January. The 12-year-old Miss Newman is making her video acting debut in "Eagle and the Hawk," which is a blend of documentary and drama dealing with protection of birds of prey.

ATTENTION WILL CENTER on the firing range tomorrow, Sunday, June 20 at New Windsor Cantonment. For a new type of special event, special exhibits will be set up there with uniformed demonstrators explaining the exhibits. It's all by way of educating the public on "The Life of a Revolutionary War Soldier from 1775 to 1783." (Palisades Interstate Park photo)

The Life of a Revolutionary War Soldier

A new and different type of educational special event will be held at New Windsor Cantonment June 20.

In addition to the annual firelock watches, the Brigade of the American Revolution will portray the "Life of a Revolutionary War Soldier" with special exhibits and demonstrations.

This Sunday commencing at 10:30 a.m. special exhibits will be set up on the firing range with uniformed demonstrators to explain the exhibits. In addition, the Life of the American Rifleman, and American, British, and German Infantryman will be depicted by members of the various re-enacted Revolutionary War Regiments of the Brigade.

Seneca River Featured

The firelock matches will feature the interesting Seneca River along with individual and team competition using reproductions of the weapons used by the Revolutionary Soldier.

The New Windsor Cantonment is the last winter encampment of General Washington's Northern Continental Army in 1782 and 1783. It is operated by the Palisades Interstate Park Commission for the New York State Historic Trust and is open daily Wednesday through Sunday. There is no charge for admission or parking at the nearby Vails Gate Attraction.

The Frying Pan: Forever Durable

Nineteenth century woman witnessed a transition from fireplace cookery to dependence upon the wood and coal burning stove after 1850. With American technological advance, materials used for fabrication of cooking utensils also underwent dramatic change.

Museum Village of Smith's Clove, Monroe, on June 20, will open an exhibit of American cookware — implements used in cooking, storage and preservation of food. The exhibition, to run until August 1, will illustrate diversity of kitchenware used. Utensils to be exhibited range from a spider skillet and salamander to a cherry stoner and apple corer. Visitors will discern the passing from usage of some utensils such as butter churns and lemon squeezers, but will realize that at least one implement, the cast iron frying pan, has remained in some American homes virtually unchanged from the 18th century. The materials used for cookware, with early dependence upon iron and wood, changed, so that by the end of the 19th century, the American housewife had implements also made of tin, graniteware, steel wire and cast aluminum.

HERALDING THE SOON-TO-ARRIVE "Vanity Fair," this colorful poster by talented Riftonite Bill Charmatz beckons one and all to a 1930's happening in the form of this year's Stone Ridge Library Fair. Eye-catching poster is on the Library barn in Stone Ridge.

Jazz, Pizzazz & Razzmatazz For a Fair With a Difference As Shades of '30s Nostalgia Holds Forth at Stone Ridge

"It's Been a Long, Long Time" since Benny Goodman went "Stomping at the Savoy." Still, with the nostalgia boom taking over Broadway, the movies and even records today, it'll be easy enough to "Begin the Beguine" at this year's Stone Ridge Library Fair.

Circled in on the calendar for Saturday, June 26 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on the Library grounds, this year's version comes in under the heading of "Vanity Fair." Taking its name from the elegant and sophisticated magazine published before and during the Thirties, the fair will be geared to remind many of that once confusing and exhilarating time, not too far removed—in retrospect—from our own era.

Inside the charming and venerable library building on fair day, an authentic copy of Vanity Fair, along with such other magazines of the Thirties as The Saturday Evening Post, Colliers, Country Gentleman, Life, Look and Motor will be on display. Another indoor attraction—silverware, from the 1939 World's Fair.

'30s Fashion Parade

For those who remember what Jean Harlow and Claudette Colbert were wearing on screen in those long lost days, the fashion show of Thirties clothes, beginning at 2 p.m., is sure to appeal. Narrated by Chet London, it'll feature a wide variety of fashions, both elegant and everyday. Spectators will also get a chance to guess which baby pictures on display match today's grown-up models.

Antique dealers are always a perennial attraction at this particular fair and, this year, nearly a dozen will again be displaying their wares. Additionally, area artisans will be exhibiting an assortment of handicrafts, including pottery, leather-work, embroidered and crocheted wares.

Children should enjoy the Art booth in particular this year, since it will cater to youthful interests. Kids are invited to participate in painting a circus train at this attraction. And while parents browse for bargains, their apperents will find plenty to occupy them at the traditional Toys and Games booth and on the carousel.

No fair is complete without food and Vanity Fair will have that in abundance. Strawberry shortcake heads the list, along with such edibles as baked goods, organic food, luncheon salads, frozen foods, and, of course, the ever-present "cream in my coffee."

Wandering Musicians

Wandering musicians will be on hand to play old tunes on request while fair-goers ponder which birdhouse to buy from the Garden booth, how to get that "white elephant" home in one piece, whether to grab that woolen scarf at the Rummage table for Aunt Ethel.

At the Book Barn, it'll be fun to look for a copy of the first edition of "Gone With the Wind" or "Anthony Adverse"—whether you find one or not.

There's still time to contribute to the Book Barn, Rummage and White Elephant booths. So drop off your items at the library or call Mary Daron at 687-7123 for pick-up.

And there's still time to plan to go to the fair, where prizes for the day will include a daisy afghan and a replica of an 18th century doll. All proceeds from the festive event will go toward the maintenance of the library, one of Marbletown's proudest institutions and now in its 36th year.

New Garner Series Sonny and Cher Show

NBC's forthcoming "Nichols" series, starring James Garner, has added as cast regulars Margot Kidder and Stuart Margolin. Miss Kidder is the provocative Canadian actress who gained so much attention in the "Quackser Fortune Has a Cousin in the Bronx" movie a year ago. Margolin has been a guest star on numerous television shows.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The husband-wife singing team of Sonny and Cher will star in a summer comedy-variety series on CBS beginning Aug. 1 at 8:30-9:30 Sundays.

The week of Sept. 12 has been designated by ABC for the introduction of its 1971-72 nighttime program lineup.

By JOAN L. WOINOSKI

It's Pop who pays the bills and rules the roost (supposedly), yet in many pads, fathers are a forgotten race. "Mum's" the word (usually, the last word at that).

However, on THEIR day (in restitution) we offer special wishes:

To all "Prudential" dads... a piece of the rock.

To Internal Revenue sires... a boost in pay, preferably, to upper bracket.

To Bernie Redmond (father of three delightful daughters)... one delightful son.

To area bankers... may they wallow in millions (their own for a change).

To golfing buffs... may 19th hole always be air-conditioned.

To pugilists... instant success. (Is there any other?)

To busy bookies... a hope they'll break even — and don't knock it lest you got somethin' better.

To Archie Bunkers everywhere... an understanding son-in-law with even disposition (mad all the time).

To morticians (especially insecure ones who worry 'bout business)... REASSURANCE: human sacrifice may become popular again.

To pops concerned 'bout waistline... a bigger belt.

To artists... chance to span generation gap by havin' 'art to 'art talk with offspring.

To area politicians... may they always enjoy INSTANT recognition.

To "pop" musicians... may they become ninth Wonder of World by finally findin' lost chord.

To newspapermen... worldwide PRESS card. ("Nuf sed!")

To party-going set... credit with Ben and Dom (Beneficial and Domestic); every home should have one!

To white 'n blue collar workers... arm bands to go with 'ring 'round collar."

To MD's... new hours: 9-5 Monday thru Friday (the difficult we offer now: next year, the impossible).

To firemen (on lyin' side of 50)... rubber-stretch hose. (Won't exactly set world on fire, but it'd save a lot of climbin').

To winter vacationers... mortgage on Florida. To summer vacationers... 40 winks at home. (After the "mortgage," how big a splash can one make without cash?)

To weathermen... advice for gainin' friends: when in doubt, cross it out.

To farmers... a firm Big Daddy image so they may be right-as-rooster-in-hen-house.

To pacifists... a place to bury-the-hatchet.

To dog catchers... when you feel down 'n out, may you always remember man's best friend.

To psychiatrists... a guru who knows karate. It's called kill or cure but discomfort is only temporary.

To good neighbors everywhere... may they always be able to keep up with the Jones.

To Don Koeppen... may he never lose so much at Monticello that he can't afford to stop at Wurtsboro Hunting Lodge for stuffed clams ($1.25) en route TO, and 10 shrimp ($1.25) on way FRO.

To all dads... a suggestion: take a gander at Burgevin

Reviewing Books

Prime Material for Crime Buffs

KILL THE DUTCHMAN! By Paul Sann. Arlington House. $8.95.

Back in the 1930's there was the gangster era. In New York one of the major figures of that violent period was Dutch Schultz—whose real name happened to be Arthur Flegenheimer.

This is Dutch's story, against the background of crime and corruption that grew out of Prohibition. He began in his teens as a petty thief, became a minor mobster and then graduated into the role of "Beer Baron of the Bronx." After the repeal of Prohibition he muscled into control of the policy racket in Harlem, collecting hundreds of thousands of dollars of policy bets, bribing police and politicians, dodging taxes and defying the law. But his underworld associates, feeling he was too erratic, sent hired gunmen to rub him out in a bloody, messy assault in a cheap bar in Newark.

Convicted Killer

Sann documents the whole story in all its ramifications, down to the point where Dutch's killer was convicted six years later. The book contains a thorough sequence of photographs of the period.

There is a massive amount of detail, a sort of play-by-play scenario, which may slow up the general reader who may be familiar with only a few gangster movies on the late, late show. But for crime buffs this should be prime material. And for serious students of the whole zany era of night life, crime, corruption and the aberrations of the 1930's this is an engrossing account.

50 Fairs in '71; 16 in July Alone

Hankering after an old-fashioned County Fair? Got a child who has never been to one?

Satisfy your nostalgia and complete a young person's education in the simple joys of life. Take in a fair this year.

In July alone, there are 16

County Fairs scheduled for somewhere in New York State. There will be 50 altogether before the "season" ends with the New York State Fair in Syracuse, Aug. 31 through Sept. 6.

If you're carless, many regularly scheduled buses make connections with communities hosting fairs; other bus firms provide charter buses for groups. For information, contact the Intercity Bus Association of New York State, 100 State Street, Albany, N.Y. 12207.

The July schedule of fairs in New York State:

July 6-10 Trumansburg; July 13-17 Canandaigua; July 13-18 Angelica; July 18-24 Afton; July 18-25 Penn Yan; July 19-24 Lowville; July 22-24 Syracuse; July 25-31 Little Valley; July 25-31 Whitney Point; July 26-31 Ballston Spa; July 26-31 Dunkirk; July 26-31 Waterloo; July 26-31 Watertown; July 27-31 Hemlock; July 30-Aug. 4 Plattsburgh and July 31-Aug. 7 Middletown.

Country Theater Has Miguel Reyna

The acclaimed Miguel Reyna Trio will perform in a benefit concert at the New Country Theater in Ridgebury on Sunday, June 20 at 8 p.m.

The trio, known far and wide for the warmth of its sound and for its technical virtuosity, will be heard in a varied program ranging from pop to classical.

Tickets are priced at $2.50, and reservations may be made by calling 342-1108.

The theater is within easy driving distance of Kingston and southern Ulster County; is located one mile off Route 6 between Middletown and Slate Hill.

'Bewitched' Plans

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Plans to film eight segments of next year's "Bewitched" television series in Europe have been canceled with the show shooting entirely in Hollywood.

TORA! TORA! TORA! This $25-million spectacular, now playing at Rosendale Theater, is a lengthy building-up-to and recreation of the attack on Pearl Harbor on that infamous December day in 1941. The Americans never seem to be too bright about diplomatic intrigue and the Japanese all seem to be wily ad sly. Lots and lots and lots of bombing in this mammoth recreation of history.

INVESTIGATION OF A CITIZEN ABOVE SUSPICION. Here's a superb Italian thriller about police authority and its insidious methods in a democratic society. As it unrolls currently at Woodstock's Tinker Street Cinema, it has stunning impact in its concentration of the perversion on the personality of personal power.

A NEW LEAF. At the Orpheum in Saugerties, this film is pure joy. Walter Matthau is superb as a suddenly penniless playboy, and Elaine May is inspired as the sloppy millionairess he woos and weds with malice aforethought. He'd planned to murder her once down the aisle; finds he'd rather settle for an eccentric wife rather than a dead one.

LITTLE BIG MAN. Dustin Hoffman and an inspired supporting cast make this western, now playing a lengthy and exclusive engagement at Hyde Park's Roosevelt, one of the finest and most entertaining movies of the past few years. It's the fictional autobiography of a gentleman who's supposed to be the 120-year-old sole survivor of Custer's Last Stand. A classic in every respect.

CLOSELY WATCHED TRAINS and THE NIGHT VISITOR. Lots of variety in this double feature at red Hook's Lyceum. "Trains" is the highly acclaimed film about a railway apprentice who somehow never gets his signals straight. This causes more than one problem since World War II is raging and his little station in Czechoslovakia is sitting right in the middle of two fronts. "Visitor" is a chiller-thriller, starring Max von Sydow as a man doomed to life in a lunatic asylum for a murder he didn't commit. In the name of revenge, he finds a way to exit its maximum security cell and roam abroad in the dead of winter to do in those who framed him. Trevor Howard is the baffled inspector who's trying to solve the perfect crimes.

SUPPORT YOUR LOCAL GUNFIGHTER. At the Hyde Park Drive-In, this comedy western starring James Garner, Suzanne Pleshette, Joan Blondell and Marie Windsor. All about a sardonic gambler bent on evading a marriage-hungry girl, a discarded fiancée and a band of ragged gunslingers.

THE MEPHISTO WALTZ and B.S. I LOVE YOU. On screen at Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In, this highly contrasting double bill. "Waltz" is in the tradition of "Rosemary's Baby"; concentrates—just for fun—on the rituals, invocations and spookiness of the chic Satanist. With Alan Alda, Jacqueline Bisset and Barbara Parkins, it's a gothic and grotesque tale. "B.S." is supposed to be the story of a young man (Peter Kastner) on the way up; emerges as a lot of sexploitation nonsense. (By TOBIE GEERT-SEMA)

BARBARA PARKINS is lovely but satanic in "THE MEPHISTO WALTZ," the witchcraft chiller-thriller now playing at Poughkeepsie's Overlook Drive-In.

ERNESTLY SPEAKING

SHORTER COMMERCIALS!

Some of my "Constant Readers," who also happen to be almost "Constant Diners," keep telling me that I seem to get carried away when I start to write about Roberto's; they intimate that the restaurant is well enough known to be lauded in short paragraphs instead of lengthy discourses.

Who am I to argue with them? Especially as a beautiful Summer draws on, and there are other things to be done? Being a guy who can see through a board fence when there's a knothole in it, I resolve to talk less about Roberto's admitted charms, cuisine and excitements. As long as we both understand that this is one of the best ding-donged, all-around Continental Restaurants between Times Square and Tonawanda, I'll soft-pedal the commercials and get down to the SCENE AT ROBERTO'S!

First order of business is to print an item that had to go into the "overset" last issue, to wit: As far as I know, the Anniversary Dinner for Mr. and Mrs. John A. Weber, of Kingston, is a high mark at Roberto's; it was their Fifty-Second! Members of the party included daughter, Mrs. May S. Wallace and son, John A. Weber, Jr.; daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Frankling (of Delmar, N. Y.) and Mrs. Weber's sisters, Jane Madden and Marguerite Murphy. If anyone has celebrated more than 52 years of wedded bliss at Roberto's, I wish they'd let me know. Meanwhile, the palm and our best wishes for many more of the same to Mr. and Mrs. Weber.  Starting with Tuesday, June 1st (that's how far behind I am!) we had the 25th Anniversary Dinner of The Town Of Esopus Unit 1298, American Legion Auxiliary. Some 30 members of the Unit enjoyed (in their words) a "delicious dinner." Among them, the President, Mrs. Betty Sanford; Treasurer, Mrs. Hil-da Davis; Secretary, Mrs. Ethel Howard, who also was Co-Chairman of the event with Mrs. Rita Bonville; and Mrs. Mary Dempsey, 3rd District Chairman. The Charter Members of the 25 year old Unit (don't blame me, girls, for disseminating this date . . . you gave it to me!) are the Mesdames Pauline Barth, Mary Dempsey, Peggy Dunham, Ida Henry, Ethel Howard, Alice Jones, Peggy Whitaker and Mame Zoda. You have only to look at them to know they formed the Unit while in kindergarten! Here's wishing you a Happy 50th Anniversary, girls!  Another Tuesday affair was the Annual Meeting of the Ulster County Nurse-Teachers Association; the 33 School Nurse-Teachers represented the School Districts of Ellenville, Kingston, New Paltz, Ontonagon, Rondout, Saugerties, Walkkill, and the Campus School, BOCES. Officers elected were: President: Mrs. Lois Curran, Rondout; Vice President, Mrs. Janice Demmeis, New Paltz, Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Rosemary Barnes, Kingston; Treasurer-Recording Secretary, Mrs. Emily Johnson, Kingston.

Then there was the Rehearsal Dinner for the Bridal Party of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cashdollar, Jr.; she is the former Karel Murray. In addition to the Bride and Groom, the party included Don Brett, Joanne Cashdollar, Mr. and Mrs. Girard R. DeVane, Laurie Lyke, Craig Murray, Jennifer Murray, Joan and Bob Murray, R. Kyle Murray, Karen Naton, Henry Paul III, Gregory B. Rasch, David Z. Rose and Linda Thomas.  June 3rd saw the Presentation Womens Club Communion Supper. Guests of Honor were Msgr. James Keating and Rev. John Murphy, C.S.R., of Presentation Church of Port Ewen. The Way Makers, of Mt. St. Alphonsus in Esopus, provided terrific entertainment after Dinner. The "addendum" from President Mrs. Michael Bonomo and Chairman Mrs. Banton read: "Sadie Bock did her usual soft shoe; Mary Smith said Dinner was very good; Way-makers were superb, and Mark Garrison was excellent, as always; Dolores McGowan said 'A Night to Remember;' Kay Murphy said 'Roberto's is the greatest;' Rose Donnelly said 'Best Party We Ever Had.' We say the Food and Service were Excellent!" Thanks, Ladies; we loved having you (especially on a Thursday!)

The same Thursday the "7:30 to 4 Day Shift" of The Staff of 1st Spellman Benedictine Hospital had their Pre-Vacation Celebration. Their Comments: "Just a Get-Together. Excellent Variety Of Menu . . . and Plenty of It. Service Excellent. We'll be back POST-VACATION!" And we'll be looking for you!  From Pat Corcoran, we learned that the "Festive Birthday Table" was celebrating 4 (Count 'Em) 4 Birthdays, to wit: Kathryn Corcoran of Kingston (May 13); Ailsa E. Reid of New Paltz (June 13) and Alice M. Wendover and Nettie S. Wendover of Plattekill, (June 11). Happy Birthdays to all!  Helen and Jon Banach, of Tillson, dined with us on their 33rd Anniversary, and I like her comment: "Just us Two; but we really don't need any special occasion to enjoy your excellent dinners. P.S.: I'd marry the same guy all over again!" I don't blame you, especially if he keeps bringing you to Roberto's for Dinner! ***

MISH AND MASH

I don't mind skipping a Summer full of "Commercials," but after all, I really should keep reminding you that Mark Garrison and Tommy Fitzgerald hold forth every Friday, Saturday and Sunday with their music; and that the far-famed, fabulous and fun-making "Saturday Night Shivarree" bubbles with enthusiasm and talent from about 10 P.M. to the Witching Hours. You're always welcome.

Come To The Fair!

An Outdoor Art Show gets major billing this year at the Town of Ulster Library Fair. And with the countdown on for the fair, space reservations for the art show are coming in from many areas at an unprecedented rate.

The fair and art fete is planned for Saturday, June 26, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., rain or shine. And it'll boast a host of features geared to please the whole family. Among the many attractions will be the Nova Folk Dancers, a colorful Flea Market, music, and book and cake booths. Prizes are also in the offing, along with refreshments.

But back to the Art Show and a reminder that anyone interested in exhibiting is urged to register now. Cash prizes will be awarded to the top three artists in the exhibit, and the entry fee is only $2.

Applications are available from Mrs. W. J. East, chairman, by calling 331-9086. Applications may also be picked up at the Ulster library on Morton Boulevard.

Perennial fair-goers will want to plan now to go and enjoy. It's free and it's in celebration of the library's 10th anniversary.

From Pow Wow To Rock Trades

A calendar of more than 200 late summer and all events of interest to tourists and vacationers has been released by New York State's Department of Commerce. It covers the period from July 15 through November.

"New York State Events" includes information on carnivals, music and arts festivals, firemen's field days and Indian powwows. For hobbyists, there are arts and crafts fairs, rock swapping bees and a variety of antique shows keyed to cars, boats, dolls and house furnishings. Sports fans will find listings of golf matches, swimming meets, regattas and horse shows.

Separate boxes contain information on Saratoga Performing Arts Center, the New York Yankees and New York Mets home baseball games, county fairs, thoroughbred and harness racing and the Adirondack Champlain Festival.

Free copies of "New York State events" may be obtained from the New York State Department of Commerce, 112 State Street, Albany, N.Y. 12207.

Tempo's 'Art Tickles' Cartoonist One of the Best

What would have to be termed a loss for the readers of such popular magazines as Saturday Evening Post, Harper's, Heritage and Esquire has just become Tempo's gain.

This week, Tempo introduces a new regular feature, "Art Tickles by Mike Thaler." Its creator is a well-known author of children's books (two of the most recent: "The Smiling Book" and "The Staff"). He is also a man of many other talents: has combined his writing career with that of sculptor, draftsman, illustrator, cartoonist and art teacher.

Recently, the Los Angeles born Thaler moved with his wife, Naomi, from New York

City to the Stone Ridge area. There he spends much of his time working on his newest interest—sculpture—while Mrs. Thaler retires to her loom to weave. Their work was recently featured at the High Falls Arts and Crafts Fair, and his books for youngsters may be found on the shelves of the Stone Ridge Library.

'Outgrew It'

Of what was his highly successful cartooning career, Thaler says he "just outgrew it." While it lasted, however, it boomed—and his cartoons were published in a wide variety of major magazines in the 1960's. While he has given up cartooning as a career for the life of an artist and writer, he has agreed to contribute to Ulster County's laugh meter by creating special cartoons satirizing art, music, TV and other cultural fields for TEMPO.

So watch for this new feature weekly in the pages of The Daily Freeman magazine, and laugh along with a talented newcomer to our area who can be expected to contribute much to the cultural life of the community.

MIKE THALER, multi-talented High Falls resident, poses with several of his recent sculpture works. Thaler is also a highly successful author of children's books and a nationally published cartoonist. Tempo's new weekly cartoon series, "Art Tickles," is being created by Thaler.
